NO. 7037—31ST YEAR. COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1902—TWELVE PAGES PRICE FIVE CENTS

CHARGED WITH THE ASSAULT OR MICHEY

W. F. Davis and Ed Minster Arrested for the Crime but Both Say They Can Prove an Alibi.

Cripple Creek Bureau Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 11.—Great indignation is felt in this city today over the dastardly assault on C. H. Michey on the War Eagle mine last night. As Mr. Michey was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, the members are helping in every way to run down the perpetrators of the deed. This afternoon warrants were sworn out in Justice McCullah's court by C. L. Michey for the arrest of W. F. Davis and Ed Minster, president and vice-president of the Altman Miners Union No. 15. These gentlemen were arrested by deputy sheriffs and later released on bonds of $400 each. When confronted by Michey, he positively identified them. Davis claims he went to work on the Shurtloff property at 5:30 last evening and not leaving the property until 2 p. m. this morning, and states that 20 miners will swear to it. Minster also declares that he was in the Independence until after 12 o'clock, midnight, which he can likewise prove, and as the assault was committed about 11:15, both men will have a good chance of an alibi. This assault was only a short distance from where Martin Gleason met death a year ago in the same way, in the Kalamazoo shaft.

DR. BURNETT ON TRIAL.—In the county court today the case of the people versus Dr. Burnett, of Victor who was arrested for practicing dentistry without a license, came up before Judge Frost, and occupied the entire day. George Q. Richmond and W. O. Temple were the defendant's attorneys. In the state's plea, District Attorney Cole quoted the law as follows in such a case: "The act provides that before a person can be permitted to practice dentistry, they must present a diploma from some university or college of dentistry from some state in the United States," remarking that this section spoke very plainly for itself. In reply, Judge Richmond contended it was unconstitutional discrimination and class legislation. He contended that if this rule or law was good, and that it should be applied to attorneys, that four-fifths of the latter learned profession would be without vocations. He further cited that Abraham Lincoln, the martyred president, gentleman and philanthropist, had neither a university or college education. Judge Frost then took the case under advisement until November 20.

OFFICIAL COUNT PROGRESSING—Deputy County Clerk Carruthers and two judges have reached tonight, Precinct No. 40 in the official count of the votes made on November 4. Mr. Carruthers says that the official count will be completed tomorrow night, with the exception of the amendments.

CHARGE OF ELECTION FRAUD—The case of the People versus W. Garrison, charged with election fraud, commenced before Justice Harrington today, was continued until November 20.

SUIT AGAINST VINDICATOR—A petition was filed today in the district court entitled Mrs. Kate Firstbrook versus the Vindicator G. M. company. Mrs. Firstbrook is suing for $5,000 damages for the death of her husband, who was killed about a year ago on that property.

ACCIDENT IN THE LOGAN—In the John A. Logan property last night two men came near losing their lives, and as a result Will Mackey, residing at 101 May avenue in this city, is confined to his bed at his home with four badly fractured ribs. Mackey and his partner were at work in a stope when they detected the arrival of gas. The partner became so ill and faint that he nearly fell off the staging. Mackey then tied him to the timbers, and started for assistance. He proceeded but a few feet when he was overcome and fell to the drift, 60 feet below, unconscious. He remained for nearly three hours. Then, the gas passing away, his partner revived and released himself, found Mackey and gave the alarm, and they were then removed to their homes in this city. This evening both men are getting along nicely.

RUMOR NOT VERIFIED—It is rumored that Fred Johnson, leasing on the Stratton Cripple Creek properties, has been tendered the position of superintendent of the Elkton properties. This report could not be verified here tonight.

PRESIDENT BAER ANSWERS MITCHELL

Statement Setting Forth the Position of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company on Questions at Issue.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading and Iron company has filed with the Anthracite coal strike commission the reply of that company to the statement made by John Mitchell, president of the Mine Workers of America, concerning the points involved in the anthracite coal strike. Following is the full text of Mr. Baer's statement:

"First, That it owns 37 collieries, situated in the counties of Schuylkill, Northumberland and Columbia and that it did operate previous to the strike inaugurated by the United Mine Workers of America 33 collieries and four washeries, and that at that time it had 26,829 employes in and about the mines.

"Second, The first demand of 20 per cent. increase upon the price paid during the year 1901 to employes performing contract or piece work is arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust. This company denies that there is such similarity between the mining of bituminous and of anthracite coal as to make wages paid in one a standard for the other. It avers that the bituminous fields extend over many states of the union; that they differ widely in the physical and local trade conditions which largely control wages; that the working of mining anthracite coal is not substantially similar work to the mining of bituminous coal, and making all necessary allowances for differences in conditions, it denies that the rate of wages in the mines operated by this company is lower than that paid in the bituminous coal fields whose coal output competes actively with the products of this company's mines.

"Third, This company denies that the present rate of wages is lower than is paid in other mines in the same locality and controlled by like conditions. This company is not informed as to the average annual earnings in the bituminous coal fields but it avers that nearly all of its former employes who during the past five months worked in bituminous mines, have returned to the anthracite coal regions, preferring to work in the anthracite mines. It further avers that the annual earnings of the anthracite mine workers is largely reduced by their refusal to work as many days as it is customary to work in other occupations and that by reason thereof this company is subjected to great loss, and the cost of producing coal is largely increased and the annual earnings of its employes diminished.

"Fourth, This company denies that the average annual earnings of the men working full time in the anthracite coal field is less than the average annual earnings of occupations requiring equal skill and training.

"Fifth, This company denies that the rate of wages in the anthracite coal fields is insufficient to compensate the mine workers in view of the dangerous character of the occupation in relation to accidents, liability to serious and permanent disease, the high death rate and the short trade life incident to this employment.

"Sixth, This company avers that while the sixth specification is too general and vague for specific answer thereto, it is true that the anthracite coal region, almost entirely dependent upon the anthracite mining industry, is one of the most prosperous in the United States and that the employes of economic habits have saved and invested their savings in houses, building associations and other property and that deposits in savings, state and national banks, aggregating millions of dollars have been made by such employes; that the standard of living is equal to that of the average American workman and that the towns and cities are better than any mining towns in the bituminous coal fields of the United States. This company denies that the alleged increased cost of living has made it impossible to maintain a fair standard of life upon the basis of the present wages or to secure any benefit from increased prosperity, and that the condition of workmen is poorer on account of it. This company further denies that the children of the anthracite mine workers are prematurely forced into the breakers and mills instead of being supported and educated upon the earnings of their parents because of low wages of such parents, or that such wages are below the fair and just earnings of mine workers in this industry. It avers that the state of Pennsylvania makes large annual appropriations to schools, and that the school districts levy local taxes for school purposes; that the text books are supplied from public funds and that the laws provide for compulsory attendance at public schools. In the county of Schuylkill this company paid for school taxes in the year 1901, $80,000. The local school boards are elected by the qualified voters of the townships, boroughs and cities. The means of education provided by the state through its system of free schools and compulsory attendance are not fully utilized because of the failure of local school boards to enforce compulsory attendance; but the wages paid are ample to insure a good common school education for all children in the coal regions desiring to attend school. No boys are employed in and about the mines and breakers in violation of the status fixing the ages of employment. In addition to provisions for education, ample hospitals for the care of the sick and injured are maintained in the anthracite coal regions. This company avers that here is not anywhere else in the world a mining region where the workmen have so many comforts, facilities for education, general advantages and such profitable employment.

"Seventh, This company denies in the second demand for a reduction of 20 per cent. of hours of labor without any reduction in earnings for all employes by the hour, day or week, is either just or equitable and avers that the reasons assigned in support of the demand are impractible, insofar as they relate to the mining of anthracite coal. The certified miners, under present conditions seldom work eight hours a day. The greater cost in the production and preparation of anthracite coal for market is not in the cutting of the coal. Many employes are paid by the month, the pumping continues day and night, the machinery is expensive and the cost of coal is largely conditioned on the collieries running full time. The output is entirely dependent on the quantities of coal a certified miner is willing to cut daily and because of this it is seldom practicable to work the full breaker time. In general we deny, insofar as relates to anthracite mining, that the ten hour day is detrimental to the healthy life of the mine workers; that shorter hours improve the physical, moral and mental conditions of the workers and that shorter hours increase the intensity and efficiency of labor. It admits that the tendency of national and state governments and of labor organizations is toward shorter hours, but denies that a working day of less than ten hours will be a real advantage to the workmen engaged in and about the anthracite mines and collieries. In exhausting work, a day of ten hours is too long, but there is no exhausting labor which justifies in a reduction of hours of work in the anthracite coal mines. Any increase in wages will necessarily increase the price of coal to the public, restrict its use and seriously affect the ability of the industries using it as fuel to compete with industries using bituminous coal. It will bear heavily on the workmen and necessarily oppress the general public and injure the general business of the country. Because of the injury to the mines by the strike of the United Mine Workers of America the cost of producing coal has been greatly increased and a temporary advance in price was made by this company, but it will be impracticable to continue such increase when mining operations become normal.

"Eighth, This company, replying to the third named, says that it has had no disagreements with any of its employes about weighing of coal. The quantity is usually determined by measurement. When coal is mined by the ton it is customary and necessary to make allowances for slate and impurities. But this company does not mine by the ton. It denies that there is anything unreasonable or unfair in the method it has practiced in arriving at the measurement of the coal from its mines.

"Ninth, This company, replying to the fourth demand, says that the United Mine Workers of America are primarily a bituminous coal organization; that bituminous coal is a rival competitor in the market with anthracite coal; that ever since the advent of the United Mine Workers of America in the anthracite fields the business conditions in the anthracite mines have become intolerable; that the output of the mines has decreased, discipline has been destroyed; strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; men have worked when and as they pleased, and the cost of mining has been greatly increased.

"At the Shamokin convention of the United Mine Workers of America referred to in the statement, it was resolved: That the United Mine workers at any colliery when the employes refused to become members of the organization or wear the button of the local governing such colliery, after using all persuasive measures to get such employes to join, and failing in such shall have full power to suspend full operation at such colliery until such employes become members of the organization.'

"Subsequently to wit, on May 12, the United Mine Workers of America inaugurated a strike and by threats and intimidation caused a suspension of work at all mines. Under date of May 21 they issued a formal official order requiring all pump men, firemen and engineers to desert their posts of duty with intent to force submission to their unjust demands by the destruction of the mines. By threats and violence they tried to prevent other men from taking the places of the firemen, pumpmen and engineers. The said United Mine Workers of America well knew that if this company did not succeed in keeping the pumps going, the mines would be so greatly injured that it would be impossible to mine coal for many months after the strike ended; and that by reason thereof the workmen of the anthracite fields would be deprived of employment and the public be made to suffer untold hardship because of the inability to procure fuel. In obedience to the power expressly given by its Shamokin convention—to suspend operations at such collieries until such employes become members of the organization—all manner of force and violence was used to prevent pumping of the mines to save them from destruction and to prevent non-union men from working. The situation is well described in the proclamation of the governor of the state of Pennsylvania to which we beg to refer as part of this answer. This company avers that the acts of intimidation to person, injury to person and property and disturbance of the public peace were contrary to the law of the land.

NEW YORK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DEDICATED

President Roosevelt Made the Principal Address of the Evening, Dealing With the Great Work of the Organization.

New York, Nov. 11.—The day's ceremonies in connection with the dedication of the new home of the chamber of commerce were brought to a close tonight by a banquet given by the chamber in honor of the guests of the occasion. The American guests of honor were President Roosevelt, Prince Hans Heinrich Von Pless, the representative of the German empire, Sir Michael Henry Herbert, the British ambassador; Jules Cambon, the French ambassador; Secretary of War Root, Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, General McArthur, Governor Odell, Mayor Low and Rear Admiral Barker. A telegram of regret was received from Cassini, the Russian ambassador.

After congratulatory cablegrams had been read by Morris K. Jessup, president of the chamber, President Roosevelt delivered the principal address of the evening.

"I do not wish to speak to you in the language of idle compliment, and yet it is but a bare statement of fact to say that nowhere in our country could there be gathered an audience which would stand as more typically characteristic than this, of all those qualities and attributes which have given us of the United States our commanding position in the industrial world.

"There is no need of my preaching to this gathering the need of combining efficiency with upright dealing for, as an American and as a citizen of New York I am proud to feel that the name of your organization carries with it a guaranty of both; and your practice counts for more than any preaching could possibly count. New York is a city of national importance because its position toward the nation is unique and the chamber of commerce of New York must of necessity be an element of weight in the commercial and industrial welfare of the entire people.

"New York is the great port of entry for our country—the port in which centers the bulk of foreign commerce—and her welfare is, therefore, of no mere local or municipal, but of national concern. The conduct of the government in dealing with matters affecting the financial and commercial relations of New York must continually bring into consideration this fact and it must be taken into account in appreciating the importance of the part played by the New York chamber of commerce. This body stands for the triumphs of peace, both abroad and at home.

"We have passed that stage of national development when depreciation of other peoples is felt as a tribute to our own. We watch the growth and prosperity of other nations, not with hatred or jealousy, but with sincere and friendly good will. I think I can say safely that we have shown by our attitude toward Cuba, by our attitude toward China, that as regards other powers our desire is that they may be able to stand alone and that if they will only show themselves willing to deal honestly and fairly with the rest of mankind we on our side will do all we can to help, not to hinder, them. With the great powers of the world we desire no rivalry that is not honorable to both parties. We wish them well. We believe that the trend of the modern spirit is ever stronger toward peace, not war; toward friendship, not hostility, as the normal international attitude.

"We are glad, indeed, that we are on good terms with all the other peoples of mankind, and no effort on our part shall be spared to secure a continuance of these relations. And remember, gentlemen, that we shall be a potent factor for peace largely in proportion to the way in which we make it evident that our attitude is due, not to weakness, not to inability to defend our United States, but to a genuine repugnance to wrong doing, a genuine desire for self-respecting friendship with our neighbors. The voice of the weakling or the craven counts for nothing when he clamors for peace, but the voice of the just man armed is potent. We need to keep in a condition of preparedness and especially as regards our navy, not because we want war, but because we desire to stand with those whose plea for peace is listened to with respectful attention.

"Important though it is that we should have peace abroad, it is even more important we should have peace at home. You, men of the chamber of commerce, to whose efforts we owe so much of our industrial well being, can, and I believe surely will, be influential in helping toward that industrial peace which can obtain in society only when in their various relations employer and employed alike show, not merely insistence each upon his own rights, but also regard for the rights of others and a full acknowledgment of the interests of the third party—the public.

"It is no easy matter to work out a system or rule of conduct whether with or without the help of the law giver, which shall minimize that jarring and clashing of interests in the industrial world which causes so much individual irritation and suffering at the present day and which at times threatens baleful consequences to large portions of the body politic. But the importance of the problem cannot be over-estimated and it deserves to receive the careful thought of all men, such as those whom I am addressing tonight. There should be no yielding, no wrong, but there should most certainly be not only a desire to do right but a willingness each to try to understand the view point of his fellow, with whom for weal or for woe his own fortunes are indissolubly bound.

"No patent remedy can be devised for the solution of these grave problems in the industrial world, but we may rest assured that they can be solved at all only if we bring to the solution certain old-time virtues, and if we strive to keep out of the solution some of the most familiar and most undesirable of the traits to which mankind has owed untold degradation and suffering throughout the ages. Arrogance, suspicion, brutal envy of the well-to-do, brutal indifference toward those who are not well-to-do, the hard refusal to consider the rights of others, the foolish refusal to consider the limits of beneficent action, the base appeal to the spirit of selfish greed whether it take the form of plunder of the fortunate or of oppression of the unfortunate—from these and from all kindred vices the nation must be kept free if it is to remain in its present position in the forefront of the peoples of mankind. On the other hand good will come even out of the present evils if we face them armed with the old homely virtues; if we show that we are fearless of soul, cool of head and kindly of heart; if, without betraying the weakness that cringes before wrong doing we yet show by deeds and words our knowledge that in such a government as ours each of us must be in very truth his brother's keeper.

"At a time when the growing complexity of our social and industrial life has rendered inevitable the intrusion of the state into spheres of work wherein it formerly took no part, and when this is also a growing tendency to demand the illegitimate and unwise transfer to the government of much of the work that should be done by private persons, singly or associated together, it is a pleasure to address a body whose members possess to an eminent degree the traditional American self-reliance of spirit which makes them scorn to ask from the government, whether of a state or a nation, anything but a fair field and no favor—who confide not in being helped by others, but in their own skill and business capacity to achieve success. The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his weight, that he shall not be a mere passenger but shall do his share in the work that each generation of us finds ready to hand; and furthermore, that in doing his work, he shall not only show the capacity for sturdy self help, but self-respecting regard for the rights of others.

"The chamber of commerce, it is no idle boast to say, stands in a pre-eminent degree for those qualities which make the successful merchant, the successful business man whose success is won in ways honorable to himself and beneficial to his fellows. There are very different kinds of success. There is the success that brings with it the seared soul—the success which is achieved by greed and vulpine cunning—the success which makes honest men uneasy or indignant in its presence. Then there is the other kind of success—the success which comes as the reward of keen insight of sagacity, of resolution of address, combined with unflinching rectitude of behavior, public and private. The first kind of success may, in a sense, and a poor sense at that, benefit the individual but it is always and necessarily a curse to the community; whereas the man who wins the second kind, as an incident of its winning becomes a benefactor to the whole commonwealth.

"Throughout its history the chamber of commerce has stood for this second and higher kind of success. It is, therefore, fitting that I should come on here as the chief executive of the nation to wish you well in your new home; for you belong not merely to the city, not merely to the station, but to all the country and you stand high among the great factors in building up that marvelous prosperity which the entire country now enjoys.

"The continuance of this prosperity depends in no small measure upon your sanity and your common sense; upon the way which you combine in action with conservative refusal to take part in the reckless gambling which is so often bred by, and which so inevitably puts an end to prosperity.

"You are men of might in the world of American effort; you are men whose names stand high in the esteem of our people; you are spoken of in terms like those used in the long-gone ages when it was said of the Phoenician cities that their merchants were princes. Great is your power and great, therefore, your responsibility.

"Well and faithfully have you met this responsibility in the past. We look forward with confident hope to what you will do in the future and it is, therefore, with sincerity that I bid you godspeed this evening, and wish for you, in the name of the nation, a career of ever-increasing honor."

The address of the president was listened to with close attention and frequent applause, and at its close the assembly arose and cheered.

GRAND JUNCTION

(Special Correspondence.)

Grand Junction, Colorado, Nov. 10.—The $20,000 ice and cold storage plant for this city has just been completed and the artificially manufactured article is now being turned out at the rate of ten tons per day and of a good quality.

Orson Adams Jr., cashier of the Mesa County State bank, W. S. Wallace, a prominent attorney and real estate man, and A. R. Wells, a prominent ranchman of this city, are the owners and promoters and they are more than pleased with the new plant, which is bound to prove a great thing for the city, where nine months in the year ice is used to a large extent.

Another splendid feature of the plant is the cold storage facilities and at present 7,000 boxes of Grand Valley apples are in the cold storage department of the plant.

Under the new management the city electric light plant is to be thoroughly overhauled and new and up-to-date machinery, together with two new dynamos are to be put in at once. Orson Adams Jr., is at present in Denver making the purchase of new machinery.

The new two-story pressed brick business block of George Carlick, on the corner of Fifth and Main streets, is nearing completion. It is without question the handsomest building in Grand Junction and cost fully $10,000. The corner room will be occupied by C. D. Smith & Co., druggists, and the other room on the ground floor will be the future home of The Fashion dry goods store. The second floor rooms, with the exception of two, have been rented by the local lodge of Elks, who propose to fit up the finest lodge room in the Western slope. It will be complete in every particular, with dining room, buffet, smoking room, dance hall, refreshment room, etc. The lodge expects to remove to its new quarters about the middle of next month.

INSURANCE CLAIM IS FILED AGAINST STRATTON ESTATE

W. W. Williamson filed a claim in the county court yesterday against the estate of the late Winfield Scott Stratton for $170, alleged to be due as premium on insurance. Of the amount $60 is due as premium on $6,000 worth of insurance on the home of the late millionaire at 115 North Weber, in the Germania Insurance company; $60 is owing on the same amount of insurance on the home in the Glens Falls and $50 is due on $5,000 worth of insurance in the Firemen's company on furniture.

GOOD SHOWING IN PRODUCTION IN BLACK HILLS DISTRICT

According to a dispatch from Lead, South Dakota, the annual report of the state mine inspector of South Dakota, Thomas Gregory, has just been submitted to the governor. It deals with the transactions of the office and the operations of the Black Mills mines for the 10 months ending November 1, being transmitted two months earlier than usual, in order that it may be printed for distribution before the legislature convenes, that the members may be informed of the importance of the mining industry and what it requires in the way of further legislation.

The gold production for the 10 months has been $7,342,227.56, against a little over $8,000,000 for the 12 months of 1901. The ore tonnage and bullion output of the principal mines have been as follows:

Mines—	Ore tonnage.	Gold value.
Homestake	1,218,089	$4,303,977.57
Golden Reward	161,000	1,223,688.00
Horseshoe	45,000	575,000.00
Holy Terror	15,000	180,000.00
Portland	12,000	84,000.00
Clover Leaf	20,080	80,320.00
Dakota	36,632	150,000.00
Rossiter	15,000	90,000.00
Wasp No. 2	25,000	25,000.00
Imperial	25,000	75,000.00
Spearfish	28,500	165,000.00
Deadwood-Standard	5,000	20,000.00
Golden Slipper, estimated	.....	20,000.00
Placer, estimated	.....	100,000.00
Alder Creek	10,800	45,331.00
Intermittent producers	.....	50,000.00
Total	1,621,001	$7,342,227.56

The report takes up the operations of the principal mining companies in detail and shows an unprecedented activity. There are 2,107 men employed about the different mines and mills. Standard wages prevail, and the kindliest relations obtain between employer and employed.

The above dispatch from Lead is of interest to this city chiefly through the Spearfish company being owned here and several Colorado Springs people being interested in the Homestake company which heads the list in point of production. The figures shown for this company are about the average and would indicate that a return to its former dividend rate may be expected. The Spearfish is owned or controlled by Colorado Springs parties, W. S. Jackson being president and D. N. Heizer secretary and treasurer. The Spearfish although one of the youngest companies in the above list, ranks fourth in point of tonnage and fifth in the value of the ore produced. This company produced during the 10 months covered by the report 34,000 tons of ore at a value of $165,00[illegible], an average of a little less than $4.50 per ton. This average is higher than that of the big Homestake, which is less than $4 per ton. That such low grade ore can be mined and treated at a profit is one of the peculiarities of Black Hills mining. In connection with the Spearfish production is must be remembered that during the period covered by Mr. Gregory's report the mill of this company was destroyed by fire, curtailing its production during the months required for the construction of the new mill.

WORK TO BE PUSHED ON TWIN PEAKS

J. A. Wright, of the well-known firm of Wright, Lilly and company, has recently returned from Idaho Springs, where he went in the interests of the Lucania Tunnel company. Mr. Wright expresses himself as exceedingly well pleased with the present outlook in the district and predicts that next year will break all records for activity and ore production.

"The big Gem consolidation," said Mr. Wright, "will give a wonderful stimulus to the district and will bring much new capital from the east. This consolidation will dispense with endless litigation and will insure the working of the great Gem vein on a large scale. Mr. Henshaw, through whose efforts this consolidation was affected, is a man of the highest standing and the fact that he will have charge of the combined enterprise is evidence that business methods will prevail and splendid results follow.

"Another event of paramount importance to the Clear Creek district is the sale of the Red Elephant group to that veteran silver miner, A. E. Reynolds of Denver. This means a regeneration of the old silver diggings around Lawson, from which in an early day so many millions were extracted. The fact that silver is hovering around the 60c mark does not deter Mr. Reynolds. He has estimated the cost thoroughly and knows the ground. The cost of mining the ore will be very largely cut down by the running of a crosscut tunnel. The expense of reducing the ores is only a fraction of what it used to cost when silver was worth $1.25 per ounce. Then there are the gold values, of which no account was formerly rendered by the smelters. Mr. Reynolds will see that he gets this portion of his profits also. It would not surprise me if he made a larger net profit out of the mines with silver at 60 cents than the former owners did when the price of the white metal was soaring. These two events, in my judgment, are the most important ones of the year and will give the district a stimulus that will work wonders."

AGGRESSIVE DEVELOPMENT POLICY AT ELKTON

The Elkton Consolidated Gold Mining company is pursuing a vigorous development policy on the big Raven hill property. About forty men are now employed and the greater portion of this number are engaged upon dead work, developing the property in the hope of opening up new ore bodies. In the seventh level a crosscut is being driven into the hitherto unexplored territory. Also on this level a drift is being driven south into the Thompson to cut the rich ore shoot which Lessee Wright has opened up in the upper levels. This lease is operative to a point 500 feet from the collar of the shaft. Below that point the company can operate. Mr. Wright has opened up some good ore in a large chimney on the Thompson claim and there is no reason why the Elkton company will not open it up at greater depth. Six different drifts and crosscuts are being driven in various parts of the mine. The Elkton company are now in debt something between $30,000 and $35,000. Of this indebtedness $19,500 went for the two big Prescott pumps, which were ordered by the old management. The bulk of the remainder was used to pay the company's taxes for the current year. The present board of managers say that the property will not be allowed to go deeper in debt. Such ore as the company is now shipping, combined with the royalties received from ore shipped by the lessees, suffices to pay the current expenses of the big property. In addition to the other development work mentioned considerable work is being done down on the Tornado and Raven properties.

Mining Notes Around Town

WOLFRAMITE ORE DISCOVERED AT JENNY CREEK, ELDORA.

The Tungsten Mining and Milling company posses a bonanza property in their Walter A. shaft at Jenny Creek, says the Eldora Miner. The shaft has been sunk 90 feet, the entire distance on the vein of which only the foot wall has been found in an opening 4x8. The formation is a peculiar one as two distinct ore bodies lay side by side. On the footwall and for about four feet above it is found a strong body of wolframite very rich in tungstic acid. Above this lies a rich body of sulphide ore carrying gold, silver and copper. This has not yet been fully explored.

Of the wolframite, the Primos Chemical Co., of Primos, Pa., the only firm handling such ores in this country, say in a letter to Manager H. T. Coutes: "We have just finished the analysis of samples sent us, and find them to contain 69.98 per cent. of tungstic acid. Ores that contain 65 to 72 per cent. tungstic acid are classed as high grade ores. We are in the market for all we can get of this class of ore and will be glad to quote you prices when you are ready to ship."

The company is installing a plant of machinery and will sink to 100 feet and then drift 100 feet each way and crosscut to reach the vein.

NEW HOME COMPANY TO SAVE ITS PROPERTY.

A meeting of the stockholders of the New Home Mining company of Leadville, was held in that city Saturday to take action regarding the present condition of the company's finances. The condition that confronted the stockholders was not an encouraging one. There is a deficit of $7,000 in the company's treasury and no ore of marketable value is exposed in the mine. Notwithstanding these conditions not a stockholder favored letting the company be sold out. John Harvey sent a proposition to the meeting that was considered and then turned down. He offered to assume the debts of the company in consideration of a lease upon the property agreeing to pay the company a five per cent. royalty, this royalty to apply on the money advanced for the payment of the indebtedness. The stockholders did not consider this proposition satisfactory for the reason that the royalty was too low and gave no promise of an adequate return. Another proposition was that of J. Rodman who offered to loan the company $12,500 at one cent per month for six months, the security being the plant of machinery and the leaseholds. The leases were to be placed in escrow and if at the end of the stated period the money was not paid the leases were to be forfeited to Mr. Rodman. This paved the way for the consideration of a plan by which the company would negotiate a loan and this was regarded by the stockholders as the best way out of the difficulty. It was suggested that the money might be raised among the stockholders themselves, thus avoiding the necessity of going to outsiders for it. After a discussion upon this point a resolution was passed authorizing the directors to make the loan on the security of the plant and the leases. No specified sum was designated, the directors to secure the largest sum possible to be used in paying the debts and prosecuting further development work on the property. This loan however will not be made at once. A committee was appointed to see the stockholders and endeavor to raise the loan from these people so that in case the plant should have to be foreclosed the individual stockholde rs who contributed toward the loan would be protected as far as possible.

A large proportion of the company's stockholders attended this important meeting which was presided over by J. M. Maxwell, president and manager of the company. Mr. Maxwell read an exhaustive report which he supplemented by a long verbal statement. Mr. Maxwell took occasion to refute many of the criticisms which have been made upon the management of the property. Mr. Maxwell said he failed to see how the original stockholders who had received 487½ per cent on their investment had any complaint to make and those who had purchased the stock at advanced figures had merely taken the usual chances of speculative venture. Mr. Maxwell also answered several interrogants and questions brought up by stockholders at the meeting. The meeting closed with a general discussion of ways and means. Mr. Maxwell calling attention to the fact that there was exposed all along the Midas line a fine body of iron which could be reached if the company had the means to do the work. A committee was then appointed to consider ways and means to make a loan and raise the money among the stockholders if possible. The formal resolution authorizing the loan was then passed.

EXTENSIVE DEVELOPMENT IS PLANNED FOR CONQUEROR

The return of P. C. Dubois, manager of the Conqueror group on Silver mountain in the Empire district, from a conference with the Chicago and Milwaukee parties interested in the working option and the resulting preparations for extensive development during the winter, augurs well for the final transfer of a valuable aggregation of claims to the strongest combination of capital ever operating at Empire. Nearly 3,000 feet of drifting has been done upon all upper levels from which many thousand tons of good pay mill dirt were treated at the company's mill and a liberal proportion of higher grade ore shipped to the smelters. The ore from the Conqueror group differs from Empire ore in general in that all of its values are carried in a coarse form of iron that can be readily saved by concentration and has yielded 90 per cent. of the values in repeated tests. A lower level has been established in the mine by means of a winze from which some 4,000 feet of drift work has carried present operations into the ore shoot coming down from the ground stoped out by Cochrane and company, lessees, a few years ago, and which yielded about $20,000, principally in milling grade ore. The sinking of a 500-foot shaft from the surface is now contemplated and the opening of new levels at greater depth will, it is believed, make the Conqueror one of the most productive properties in the Empire camp. The consummation of the plans for the betterment of this group has been intrusted to a mining man of long experience not only as a miner but also as a metallurgist.

DANGEROUS

Some sensible advice to women passing through this trying period.

The painful and annoying symptoms experienced by most women at this period of life are easily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially designed to meet the needs of woman's system at the trying time of change of life.

It is no exaggeration to state that Mrs. Pinkham has over 5000 letters like the following proving the great value of her medicine at such times.

"I wish to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her medicine has done for me. My trouble was change of life. Four years ago my health began to fail, my head began to grow dizzy, my eyes pained me, and at times it seemed as if my back would fail me, had terrible pains across the kidneys. Hot flashes were very frequent and trying. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken six bottles of it and am to-day free from those troubles. I cannot speak in high enough terms of the medicine. I recommend it to all and wish every suffering woman would give it a trial." — Bella [illegible], 46 Montclair Ave., Roslindale, Mass. — [illegible]

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Nov. 11.—The mining stock market this morning was dull and featureless although there were few losses. In the mines list Butterfly-Terrible was the only feature. This stock started at 10 cents per share and was worked up to 12½ cents, 7,000 shares changed hands. Coriolanus and Isabella gained fractionally. Polster made a substantial advance. C. K. and N., Elkton and Gould were stationary. Among the preferred prospects American Consolidated made a fractional advance and Sedan gained to $7 per thousand. Other stocks in the list remained stationary. In the prospects list Leon Consolidated made a fractional gain, Rocky Mountain lost fractionally and Texas Girl advanced. Old Gold remained stationary.

EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Report of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., to William A. Otis & Co.:

New York, Nov. 11.—In sympathy with a higher range from London the entire list opened strong and in some cases at a substantial advance. This condition was not lasting, however, and the market soon sank into the state which has been characteristic of it for days past, entirely lacking of support when selling orders appear. The weakness of Amalgamated was a distinctive feature of the day's trading. Nothing of an explanatory nature was made public to account for the decline, but the general inference is that the depression was due to pool selling and rumors that the trade conditions in the metal are unsatisfactory. In the last hour the market weakened, due to big selling orders from a house identified with the so-called Waldorf-Western crowd and the general list closed with figures lower than for some time past. The financial situation remains unchanged. Demand sterling, 4.87@4.87¼.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Under the influence of higher quotations from London our market showed some recovery from the close of last night and for the first hour there was more confident tone although the trading was light as compared to the volume of activity yesterday. Amalgamated copper after advancing one point commenced to show weakness, and under heavy selling orders which looked largely like speculation, on the part of the Standard Oil party, broke 5 points. This started urgent liquidation in the general list again and in the afternoon session the market broke badly to a lower level than yesterday's lowest. It was difficult to trace the selling. The market was feverish and quite demoralized and continued under heavy pressure. Heavy liquidation was apparent during the entire afternoon session, supposed to be caused by the calling of heavy loans. Liquidation is now well under way and it is difficult to tell just when it will stop. It has made heavy inroads into marginal accounts and may force considerable selling by weak holders. Up to this time the selling orders have largely emanated from pools and the largest operators and as a rule the public usually comes in to sell after the market has declined heavily. The close was at about lowest prices and no rally in sight.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS. Report of Logan & Bryan to William A. Otis & Co.:

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Wheat: Liverpool unchanged to ⅛ higher, Paris, ¼ to ⅛ lower. Antwerp, unchanged. Primary receipts, 1,597,000, against 1,444,000; shipments, 1,035,000, against 570,000. Clearances, 411,000. Bradstreet makes the world's visible increase 4¾ millions. Market here was more active and strong. With the exception that rains are generally predicted throughout the west and northwest which, it is thought may decrease the movement somewhat, there is nothing particularly new in the situation. There is little talk of little better continental demand for wheat at the seaboard, but in this market and in the southwest, the demand is only moderate, and the low grades of wheat are neglected and dragging.

The buying here was mainly local. Armour is supposed to be a considerable buyer the last few days and Patten today was covering his shorts. The difference between December and May still has a widening tendency. Estimated cars 125.

Corn: Liverpool unchanged to ¼ lower. The government report yesterday again raised its estimate of the crop about 300,000,000 bushels, and now makes it about 2,550,000,000 bushels. This was the bearish influence of the day. The weather is threatening throughout the corn belt. The selling was largely by commission houses. There was no change to note in the cash situation. Receipts are liberal and demand only moderate. Estimated cars 120.

Oats: December 29⅝@29¾; May, 31¼. Closed yesterday 30 and 31¼. Market was very quiet and easier in sympathy with corn. The whole situation is dull, the speculative trade uninteresting and the market without decided tendency. Estimated cars 160.

Provision: Market is easy. Probably it was affected by the government report on corn. Trade is small and for the day wholly featureless. Receipts: Hogs, 30,000, against 113,000 last year.

Denver Market.

Denver, Nov. 11.—Cattle—There was another good run of cattle in and several trainloads more expected tonight and tomorrow. The yards are full of cattle, as very few of the 5,000 that arrived in the past two days were shipped out. The market conditions show no improvement over yesterday and prices rule weak to lower on the general run of stuff. The bulk of the stock cattle from the Wolcott country found sale but prices were withheld for the time being. These cattle were sold by the head, as they consisted of cows and calves. A big bunch of calves sold by the head, $5.00 being the price paid each, and another good bunch were sold by weight, bringing $3.60 per 100. Good feeders and stockers did not decline as much as the common kinds, but they were affected more or less in sympathy. A bunch of good feeders that averaged 840 pounds sold at $3.00, and another bunch that averaged 857 pounds sold at $4.00, the latter sale being freight paid. The bulk of the trading done was on she stuff, packers getting some fair good cows at $3.25, and the feeders bought a big bunch of thin cows at $2.40. Prices ranged on cows from $1.50 to $3.25 and the bulk sold at less than $2.75. The run of cattle at the eastern markets was good today and prices reported to be lower at the river and at Chicago.

Hogs—Hog receipts were fairly liberal today and under a good demand a clearance was made before noon at river prices. The eastern markets were a shade lower and this market declined in sympathy, the top hogs selling at $6.45, and the bulk at $6.30 to $6.35. The market closed weak, with a tendency to lower values.

Sheep—Sheep receipts were fair, but the only trading cone was a load of killers sold at $2.75, with a cut at $1.75. The market ruled strong on good muttons and steady on feeders. There is a good demand for choice killers, but light for feeders.

COPPER LETTER.

Reported by Paine, Webber & Co. to William A. Otis & Co.:

Boston, Nov. 11.—Coppers were under some pressure and lower today. Amalgamated was again the leader of the decline and the operations appeared to be chiefly manipulative. It is believed by some that Amalgamated interests are depressing their stock to help them make a bear turn on the rest of the market. The necessity of liquidating weak accounts on the New York market is the chief factor of the situation at present. After this liquidation is over coppers ought to sell higher.

Metal Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 11.—Tin was 5s higher in London today, spot closing there at £117 5s and futures at £115 17s 6d, but was lower in New York and easy in tone with spot quoted at $26.05@26.25. Copper was lower abroad, declining 3s 6d to £51 7s 6d for spot and £51 12s 6d for futures. Copper was a shade higher locally, but was weak in tone. Standard closed at $11.75; lake, $11.50@11.50; electrolytic, $11.40@11.50, and casting $11.40@11.50. Lead was steady but quiet here at 4⅛ and dull but unchanged in London where it closed at £10 13s 9d. Spelter was unchanged at $5.40 locally and at £19 10s in London. Iron was a shade lower abroad with Glasgow closing at 56s 7d and Middlesboro at 50s 9d. Locally iron was dull.

THE OPHELIA TUNNEL

New Company Organized to Push the Work Has a Quarter of a Million Dollars in Cash and All the Debts Which Have Been Hanging Over It Are Paid—May Bring New Railroad.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 11.—From the very moment that the old Bush-Moffat tunnel was located and started, the miners in the district have had faith in this enterprise. Originally the bore was headed for the Victor mine, and for the main shaft. That original proposition has never been changed. The big bore, double-tracked, is ready for business, far beyond the requirements of the law; that is, 3,000 feet, and the Ophelia tunnel will not stop at the heading, as it is destined to become a great factor in the development of the district. As most people are aware, this promotion has been under the weather of late, and in fact so badly in debt that a reorganization was necessary. That reorganization has been perfected, and as a result, instead of one, there are now two companies. The original, The Gold Exploration and Tunnel company, has sold to the Cripple Creek & Pueblo Railroad company its right-of-way, track, and all its transportation facilities to the company named. The old corporation retains its right to all properties held under bond and lease, and to all other properties that it may acquire.

The old company also retains the right to erect samplers and mills, at its portal of the tunnel, and to sink shafts to the water level, from which water may be pumped, till such time as a really deep bore may relieve the situation. This Ophelia tunnel is at last a great proposition as it has finally been freed from all litigation. So far it has cost $270,000, and until yesterday it owed a considerable sum of money, but every cent of the indebtedness has at last been paid, and in the treasury of the new company there is now an even quarter of a million dollars in money.

The new company that has been organized has its eye on another railroad for the district. It is argued that in pushing the tunnel as originally planned through to Beaver creek, a new broad gauge line from Pueblo could easily reach the district, and back of this enterprise there is an abundance of money. Boston people are promoting the deal, and experts galore have reported favorably upon the project, among the number being several C. F. & I. men. So far as the railroad is concerned, the people of the district are not especially anxious, as faith is pinned to the Short Line in these towns, but for the pushing of the tunnel there is every need. It has done not a little good so far in its course, but there is no doubt it will do much better later on. Its promoters are live, energetic men, and too much praise cannot be given to President Chapin and Superintendent Parfet. The last named gentleman has been mining for two years, and now admits that he is just getting down to business.

The Bostonians gave a royal entertainment to royalty and others at the Opera house last evening, for the Crown Prince of Siam occupied a box and the house was filled by one of the largest and most fashionable audiences ever gathered together in the local theater. Ample recognition was given to the really meritorious work and there was a great deal of deserved appreciation.

The solo voices received good support from the chorus and last night's entertainment was in every respect a notable event in the local theatrical season.

No adequate idea could be formed of the real merits of the chorus. For the meager stage room cramped its action and a chorus of such size and vocal capacity is always at a disadvantage musically in a small house. Its strength lies in the upper-register voices, the tenors and sopranos. It is not as well balanced as it might be, the tenors appearing too prominently at times, thereby destroying the subtle and thrilling effect of a volume of harmony wherein each part is distinguishable without any one part being prominent. Although the limited capacity of the theater may have accentuated this feature of the chorus work, that cannot be held entirely responsible. There is opportunity for some effective drilling of the chorus in harmonizing the several parts. It was also heavy at times, lacking in snap and energy.

Grace Van Studdiford as Maid Marian was delightful. Her voice is full and true and technically equal to her part. Her solo work in the second act brought out all the fine qualities of her voice showing its flexibility and strength and demonstrated that she is easily the vocal artist of the company. She has no rival among the women and only shares her honor with Mr. MacDonald, whose splendid voice shows to best advantage in his "Brown October Ale" solo. That, by the way, was one of the choice features of the evening and along with it should be mentioned the sextet of Scarlet, Guy, Robin Hood, John, the sheriff and Friar Tuck; the trio of Marian, the sheriff and Guy and the tinkers' chorus.

Mr. Weeden as Robin Hood, singing the leading tenor, was rather disappointing. His voice is powerful but lacks timbre and its quality is not altogether pleasing. He makes a great mistake in attempting falsetto tones which he cannot master, and the lower octave taken with a full tone would be more pleasing if less brilliant. The weaknesses in his voice are most noticeable in his sustained notes, when his voice lacks precision, is uncertain and rough except in double fortissimo passages where the power of his voice commands attention and respect. That it is not in the same musical class with Miss Studdiford's voice is demonstrated in their duet in the first act. But Mr. Weeden can hold the key and is acceptable throughout, there being nothing erratic about his voice. One knows just what to expect from him before the curtain falls on the first act.

Mr. Macdonald scored a well-deserved hit with his "Brown October Ale" solo, where his splendid baritone voice showed to excellent advantage and charmed everyone. Mr. Barnaby's voice is succumbing to hard use, but he is delightful and his tipsy scene in the second act was one of the best bits of work during the evening. Mr. Hinckley's bass voice is agreeable always. It can scarcely be called brilliant, but it is of good quality and he received just recognition in his solo work in the second act. Miss Moore was recalled for an encore to "O Promise Me" and at times her voice was very pleasing, of considerable power and the tones of the middle register were very good.

It is needless to add that last night's entertainment at the Opera house was a rare musical treat. On the whole the company is an excellent one and there are times when its work rises to a very high level. The music of the opera itself approaches more nearly to the class represented by such operas as "The Bohemian Girl" and "Erminie" than any similar work of recent years. It is far superior to and should not be mentioned in the same class with the ordinary comic opera of the present day.

"Maid Marian," which is a sequel to or continuation of "Robin Hood," will be presented this evening. Theater lovers will certainly not be given a better entertainment this season and there will doubtless be very few anywhere near as good.

Mr. Piper of "New [illegible]" Besieged at the [illegible]

James N. Piper, who registers at the Antlers hotel from New York, but who is said to live in Louisville and who is also said to be a son of the tobacco manufacturer whence Piper-Heidsieck chewing tobacco derives its name, is badly wanted by the sheriff's officers.

This does not mean that there is any criminal charge against Mr. Piper by any means, but they would like to interview him for the space of a single minute. Mr. Piper at midnight last night was peacefully slumbering in his room on the third floor of the hotel while outside the door, ensconsed in a chair in a dark corner, sat Deputy Sheriff W. P. Larabee, patiently waiting, like Patience on a monument for the first gray streak of day to chase away from Mr. Piper's bedside the gay god Morpheus. Throughout the evening Deputy Sheriff George Dayton had kept the same chair warm and Deputy Larabee was his relief. Downstairs Sheriff Gilbert acted as corporal of the guard.

It all came about through a summons which Sheriff Gilbert received some time ago from Denver. It came from Attorney Charles J. Hughes and was to be served upon Mr. Piper who would thereby become defendant in a suit for $1,000 instituted in the courts of Arapahoe county by the First National bank. Mr. Piper may or may not know of this suit. The officers think he does. They took their time about securing service of the summons, not apprehending any difficulty, but a few dozen casual calls at the hotel developed the fact that Mr. Piper had just gone to Denver, or had just gone down the street. By diligent inquiry the officers further learned that Mr. Piper had given orders that he was not in at any time. This gave rise to the suspicion that Mr. Piper had very particular reasons for not wanting to see anyone and particularly anyone with that summons. It is not likely that the amount of money itself bothers Mr. Piper, who is said to be a very wealthy man, but it may be the suit that is distasteful.

Finally the officers reached the conclusion that Mr. Piper could only be reached by a severe campaign and plans were laid accordingly. Deputy Dayton thundered upon his door early last evening, but received no more response than if he had kicked upon a tomb. So he sat down to wait and was rewarded later by seeing a bellboy come out of the room, the door being immediately locked behind him by someone in the room. The officers have a hunch that Mr. Piper is the someone because no one else occupies the room and they propose to see him if it takes the rest of the winter. Mr. Piper may sleep from now until Christmas, but just as soon as he steps out of that door he will be handed the summons and the interest of the local officers in his welfare will cease forthwith.

Mr. Piper has been here several weeks.

Cheyenne Boulevard Club Was Raided Last Night

Sheriff Gilbert and Deputy Sheriff Dayton last night raided a house in Ivywild known as the Cheyenne Boulevard club, a small one-story structure just south of the baseball park, and arrested three well-known young men.

The arrest was made on a warrant sworn out by a Mrs. Bish, who lives in the vicinity of the club house. It is claimed by her that the club was a questionable resort and a nuisance. Justice of the Peace Ruby issued the warrant and the raid was made by the officers at about 11 o'clock. Only the three young men, all of whom are well-known about the city and more or less prominent, were found in the building and they were taken in charge. The warrants had been issued for John Doe, Richard Roe, etc., and the young men gave these names.

Two managed to secure bonds and were released and the other is in the county jail. It is claimed that the club house has been a drinking resort for some time and that the neighbors have been making strenuous complaints about it. The young men will be tried Wednesday.

Elks Break Ground for New [illegible]

Tonight's the night the Elks break ground for their new club house at Bijou and Cascade with ceremonies which have been described as being about the most uncanny thing ever sprung upon the people of Colorado Springs. It will undoubtedly be the most unique ground breaking that ever attended the launching of a new building, Elks or otherwise. The members of Colorado Springs lodge No. 309 will assemble at their club room at 10:30 and will proceed in a ghostly array, ghostly because everyone will have a sheet wrapped around him and a pillow slip over his head, to the building site. There the ritual will be carried out in a startling pantomine directed by Exalted Ruler R. L. Holland. There will be many little details to make the ceremony unique and surprising which have not yet been made public. At the mystic hour of 11 the first spadeful of earth will be turned. This is the eleventh day of the eleventh month, and so decidedly appropriate for the ceremony.

The Change in Fashion Pictures.

Even the busy masculine world—perhaps the masculine world especially—has had occasion to notice that a great improvement has taken place in the last few years in the feminine fashion picture. A [illegible] girl, dressed in the new [illegible] and photographed in them, illustrates the fashions not only in the modern [illegible] they were to illustrate, which [illegible] set forth or exhibit, but in the [illegible] which seems to give honor and [illegible]. The traditional fashion plate served the purpose merely of setting forth the shape, the cut, the [illegible], as it [illegible] of the costume. The fashion [illegible] little about anything else. [illegible] she wanted after a picture [illegible] and shapely woman [illegible] "dress" for her own or someone [illegible]. However, under these [illegible] the "eternal feminine" did not really go to the heart of things. In these marvelous old drawings the costumes fitted so miraculously well—they were so smooth, so flat, so rigid—that the dressmaker for herself and others could not tell how the clothes were going to "hang" on a real live woman. Under the photographic system, on the other hand, models who represent the various physical types or builds of women are employed, and women of the corresponding type quickly choose from amongst the pictures their own representatives. Finding them, they perceive how a garment is going to look when they wear it. Meantime, through this comparison with nature, the distorted form of the old-fashion picture has become absurd and quite shocking. Even fashion pictures which are drawn must be truer to life than they were made formerly. Photography has, in this respect at least, done good service for beauty.—Harper's Weekly.

Thirty-five of the members of the Bostonians troupe are stopping at the Elk. The party came from Denver yesterday over the Colorado & Southern.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Gale have returned from El Paso, Texas, where they spent their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Gale will make their residence in this city. Mr. Gale is money clerk for the Wells, Fargo & Co. express at the Santa Fe depot.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

BIBLE DOCTRINE—The Y. M. C. A. second class in Bible doctrine will meet at the association rooms this evening at 7:30.

HAD A WALKOVER—The Second Columbias defeated the First Columbias in a game of football yesterday by a score of 15 to 0.

RETAIL GROCERS—The regular meeting of the Retail Grocers association will be held this evening at A. O. H. hall. All grocers are invited to be present.

BATTALION DRILL—Companies D and I, N. G. C., will have a battalion drill next Wednesday evening. The men of each company are preparing faithfully for this drill and it is expected that the soldiers will make a good showing.

COLORED GIRL MISSING—Jennie V. Smith, a colored girl, 9 years old, daughter of Thomas Smith, living at 726 South Corona, is reported to the police as missing. It is thought she has run away, as it is said that she has done so before. She wore a pink dress and a gray double breasted coat.

LOT SOLD—Hastings Bros. report the sale of lot 8 and the south 10 feet of lot 7, block 14, in their Fifth addition to the city, to J. L. Heaton; consideration, $1,125. A 3-room cottage is erected on the ground, which is being purchased by Mr. Heaton for a residence.

COMPANY I DANCE—On Thursday evening of this week company I, Second regiment, N. G. C., will have a dance at the Alamo hotel. The affair will be the first in a series of monthly dances to be held at the Alamo by the soldiers of this company and will be strictly an invitation dance. A pleasant series of dances is expected.

DUPPS WON OUT—Frank J. Dupps, local agent of the Colorado & Southern in this city, won the meal ticket given away by the McRae cafe last week. Mr Dupps held the lucky ticket, No. 712, which drew the commutation meal ticket, and will eat at the expense of the proprietors of the establishment for a short time. No. 712 was drawn Saturday morning.

NOONDAY PRAYER—The first of a series of noonday prayer meetings in connection with the Y. M. C. A week of prayer, was held yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Rev. C. K. Powell had charge of the meeting. Today and hereafter through the week Evangelists Smith and Colburn will conduct the meetings. They begin at 12 o'clock and last until 12:30, and all men are invited.

DIRECTORS GAVE A LUNCH—The directors of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday evening gave a lunch in honor of Rev. I. E. Brown, state secretary of the association for Illinois. The local building situation was discussed, Mr. Brown expressing himself as well pleased with the plans and the manner in which they are being carried out. He said he considered the Colorado Springs building the best for the money that he had seen.

FOR NORTHWESTERN LINE—The local Colorado & Southern office has received a consignment of 5,000 memorandum books and folders advertising the Chicago & Northwestern road, for which the Colorado & Southern is the local agent. The booklet is very neat and gives a great deal of valuable history about the early railroads of the middle west. The memorandum books are now being distributed at the local office.

ON VAGRANCY CHARGE—James Davis was arrested last night by Detectives Gregory and Atkinson on a charge of vagrancy. James is a young fellow who has just come here from Pennsylvania and the officers say that last night he was begging from the newsboys on the streets. When they refused to donate to him he offered to whip them. James was very boisterous when the officers accosted him and used extremely bad language. He was very passive, however, by the time he was landed in jail.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY GAVE A COMPLIMENTARY DINNER

The Woman's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. tendered a complimentary dinner last evening in the association rooms to two visitors, Mr. I. E. Brown, state secretary of the Illinois Y. M. C. A., and Mr. E. L. Hamilton, railroad secretary of the Y. M. C. A., both from Chicago. Invited to meet Messrs. Brown and Hamilton were these directors: Prof. E. S. Parsons, T. P. Day, W. H. Day, E. C. Sharer, E. B. Simmons, B. F. Scribner, T. P. Barber and C. G. Collais of the local Y. M. C. A. Members of the auxiliary who prepared and served the enjoyable dinner were Mesdames A. H. Whaite, D. A. Russell, John Lennox, C. C. Dickey and W. H. Day.

PUEBLO POLICE RECOVERED GOODS STOLEN IN DENVER

Special to the Gazette.

Pueblo, Nov. 10.—The police tonight captured the balance of the stuff stolen a few days ago from the Burger department store in Denver. The stuff was in the possession of three colored men under arrest here and was positively identified late tonight by officers who came from Denver for the purpose of looking at it. They will leave for Denver in the morning with the prisoners. The [illegible] is valued at about $[illegible].

FREE MIDLAND BAND CONCERT

At Cheyenne park Sunday afternoon, 3 to 5.

[...]rado even, but we are not to be entirely deprived of having royalty in the city this year for His Royal Highness Maha Vajiravudh, crown prince of Siam, arrived in the city yesterday morning over the Rock Island and is now the guest of the city. The royal party with American escorts came in yesterday morning at 8:18 and will remain here until tomorrow morning when they will leave for California, stopping en route only at the Grand Canon of the Colorado in Arizona.

The royal highness is a strange, though very important bit of royalty. He is important because he is to be the next ruler of a country that is fast becoming one of the leading smaller nations of the globe and one that is fast becoming Europeanized.

The crown prince is strange, first, because he is so uncommunicative. He rarely has anything to say and on the present tour of the United States, while he expresses great pleasure with the country, he is not as talkative on the subject as one would suppose he would be. His royal highness refuses absolutely and point blank to see reporters and representatives of the press and as he speaks mainly in Siamese, it is a hard matter to do any eavesdropping. The prince is strange, secondly, because he is scarcely five feet high and walking as he goes between two full grown secret service men, his size is even more pronounced.

Maha Vajiravudh has about him a large retinue. There are a number of his American friends who are looking out for his welfare. In addition to the prince and his two aide-de-camps, Colonel Phya Rajavallobh and Captain Luang Sarasiddh, and his private secretary, Mom R. Anuvatra, there is the Siamese minister to Washington, Phya Prasirrhi, Prof. J. H. Gore of the Columbian university, Mr. E. H. Loftus, secretary of the Siamese legation at Washington, H. Y. Darnell, tourist agent of the Pennsylvania, who has been with the prince's party ever since they landed at New York and who is personally conducting the trip for his highness and has entire charge of the special train; Mr. George Denny of the Associated Press, who has also been with the party since it left New York and R. H. Taylor and L. C. Wheeler, two secret service men, one or both of whom are always with his royal highness. There is also the full quota of trainmen who usually accompany such parties. Conductor Patrick, Engineer Morse, and Traveling Engineer Hathway, of the Rock Island, have been in charge of the special for the Rock Island ever since leaving Kansas City, where the party first took the road. The trip from New York to Chicago was made over the Pennsylvania lines, from Chicago to Kansas City over the Chicago & Alton, and from Kansas City here, over the Rock Island. There are also a sleeping car conductor, three porters, three cooks, and four waiters and the steward of the prince's private car Columbia. The Columbia is the car used by Grover Cleveland while president on his trips and later used by Prince Henry when he made his American tour. The other cars in the special are the diner Walton, the sleeper and drawing room car, Hungary, and the combination smoking and baggage car, Atlantic. The train was brought in from Goodland, Kas., by Rock Island engine 1378. All of the coaches are the finest that could be procured for the trip. The woodwork in each is handsomely carved and the interior of the cars represent small palaces. The Columbia especially, is one of the [...]spect a small cottage. The Siamese members of the party remain in this car accompanied by one of the secret service men. R. H. Taylor, one of the secret service men, is the successor of William Craig, who was killed by being struck by a trolley car in an accident that came so near resulting fatally for President Roosevelt at Pittsfield, Mass., last summer. Both of these secret service men in the party have conducted a number of royal personages in their trip through this country.

When the special pulled into the station yesterday morning a large crowd of people were present to behold the royal visitor. When the train came in everybody craned their necks to catch a glimpse of Mr. Vajiravudh, but they did not know the prince's bashfulness. He was then eating breakfast in the diner with the remainder of the party, but the blinds were drawn and the curiosity of the crowd caused them to climb around over the coaches and inspect the supply lockers underneath the cars. The man in charge of the commissary department of the trip keeps it well supplied for the lockers are all full of the choice tid bits that are likely to satisfy the palate of the distinguished guest. The baggage car also came in for considerable inspection where 76 pieces of baggage are piled up for the party.

When the party had finished eating breakfast, a committee of local citizens, consisting of Dr. B. P. Anderson, Mayor J. R. Robinson, Duncan Chisholm and C. H. Mellen called and were introduced to the prince. After the usual courtesies were passed the party took a drive through Palmer park, over the Mesa to Glen Eyrie, thence to Manitou through the Garden of the Gods, returning to Colorado Springs late in the evening by way of Colorado City. During the entire drive a member of the secret service department and his aides were near the royal personage and he was so carefully guarded that no one was able to get near him. The prince and the entire party appeared delighted with the trip, and with the city and surrounding country. While the prince is so very modest and is not in the habit of saying much, he expressed great delight all along the route at the beautiful scenery, and considering the fact that he has visited almost all the scenic points of Europe and the old world, this is a great compliment to Colorado scenery. The springs at Manitou came in for a great deal of the party's attention and all of them were visited. In the evening the prince, accompanied by his aides, Prof. Gore and Mr. Garnell and other members of the party, attended the opera, "Robin Hood," as rendered by the Bostonians at the Opera house.

Program for Today.

This morning at 10:30 the prince and his attendants will formally return the call of Mayor Robinson at his office in the Bank building. The party will then make a brief visit to the High school at the invitation of Superintendent Dietrich of the public schools of the city. His royal highness will make a brief speech to the students and then will drive to Cheyenne canon. Luncheon will be taken at the Cheyenne Mountain Country club house. In the afternoon the prince will rest, and this evening the banquet will be given at the Antlers by the citizens. Mayor Robinson requests that as many of the people of the city as possible attend this banquet. An elegant spread will be served in the dining room of the hotel under the special supervision of Manager Maruechi. The guests will pay $6.00 per plate. Acting upon the wishes of the prince the dinner will be very informal and no great amount of toast making and speech making will be indulged in. The banquet will begin at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow morning the royal party will leave for the west.

Applicant—I'd like to get a job as track-walker.
Railroad Superintendent—Any experience?
Applicant—I used to be an actor.

WHY, OF COURSE.

She—Is your brother a loud dresser?
He wears a crash suit.

SOME CONSOLATION.

She—How the wind whistles!
He—Yes; but it doesn't whistle "The Good Old Summer Time."

REPORT THAT MASCAGNI WILL RESUME HIS TOUR

By Associated Press.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Pietro Mascagni, the composer-conductor, who was arrested Saturday night on a mesne process in a suit brought by his former managers, Mittenthal Brothers, was released after a hearing in the superior court today on $4,000 bonds, which he furnished himself.

Mascagni immediately retaliated by suing the Mittenthals for $50,000 damages for alleged false arrest.

It is stated that Mascagni will resume his tour in this country.

AN HONEST DEMOCRAT

By Associated Press.

Bristol, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Congressman Rhea, Democrat, of the Ninth Virginia district, today issued a signed statement in which he says in reference to the rejection of the precincts of Pattison and Mendota in the returns from last week's election that while he is sure the commissioners were honest in their belief, that the returns should be rejected he believes that the votes belong to Slemp, Republican, and would probably elect him, and if a certificate of election is issued by the state board to Rhea, based on the exclusion of the votes mentioned, he will decline to accept it.

Colorado City News

OFFICE—Tribble's Jewelry Store, 414 Colorado Avenue.

COLORADO CITY, NOV. 11.

Large Sum of Money Went Into Circulation Yesterday

The 10th of each month is beginning to assume almost as large proportions as a pay day in Colorado City as the 15th. Yesterday was pay day for the Portland and Telluride mills, the Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek railroad, the D. & R. G. railroad and the Manitou & Pike's Peak railroad. The latter, while not strictly in Colorado City, directly affects business here as a large number of the men employed make their homes in Colorado City, and patronize Colorado City merchants.

The Ben Brewer Brick company also paid off their men yesterday.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

GOSPEL MEETINGS—A series of gospel meetings began last night at the Baptist church, in charge of Rev. Lamont, the local pastor, and Rev. A. D. Carpenter of Denver. The meeting last night was well attended, and a successful and interesting series is anticipated.

NEW BREAKFAST FOOD—Miss Cameron of Denver, is demonstrating the good points of Malta Vita Breakfast Food at Martz' grocery store.

WAS OPERATED UPON—Mrs. A. L. Huff was taken Sunday to St. Francis hospital, where she has undergone a very successful operation, and her rapid recovery is now expected.

TAKES NEW HOME—Oscar Lovan is moving from the residence he has occupied on Monroe avenue, into the house at the corner of Fourth and Jefferson streets.

HAD A SOCIAL—A very pleasant social time was spent last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kintner of Colorado City, the occasion being a birthday surprise party, given by a number of friends for their son, Mr. Leo Kintner.

LUCAS IS OUT—George Lucas, who was injured by the breaking down of the grandstand at the football game at Washburn field last Saturday, is now able to be out. The report that he was probably injured internally was erroneous.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Harry West of Denver, is visiting his brother, Charley West, of the Standard Clothing store, for a few days.

C. D. Taylor is in Denver this week on business.

Mr. Chas. Pontruff, brakeman on the Short Line, is laid off on account of sickness.

Wm. A. Love, who has been quite sick with pneumonia for some time, is rapidly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. K. Hedrick are down from Cripple Creek for a few days.

Mr. Joe Fisk, brakeman on the Midland, who was injured last week, is getting along nicely at St. Francis hospital, although he will not be able to get out for several months. His injury, a broken knee cap, is of such a nature that it will be slow to heal.

Mrs. Ela Phelps has moved to Cripple Creek.

Arthur Miller is in Denver.

Patrick Sullivan, who has been here for several months for his health, left yesterday for his home in St. Louis.

First National Bank

Of Colorado City, although a comparatively new institution, is making many friends. It affords safe and convenient banking facilities, and has already gained the confidence and support of the community. Its officers and directors are Edgar T. Ensign, Louis W. Cunningham, Francis B. Hill, Chas. M. Sherman, D. P. Clark, R. L. Johnson and Willis R. Armstrong.

When A Leak Occurs

In your plumbing send for us and we will attend to it promptly and give you the least possible amount of trouble and inconvenience.

By the way, hadn't you better take out that old cased-up lavatory and put in a new one with open plumbing? We are showing a beautiful line of White Enameled, Italian Marble, Mexican Onyx and Solid Porcelain Lavatories. Should be pleased to submit estimates for any changes that you may contemplate in your plumbing. Your patronage solicited.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF THE WIRELESS TELEGRAPH

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Government control of all wireless telegraph stations along the coasts of the United States is recommended by Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, in his annual report, in the concluding portion of which was issued today. Foreign governments it is pointed out, are exercising careful supervision over the location of wireless stations within their waters, thus insuring prompt transmission of all messages at all times. Admiral Bradford says it is proposed to establish wireless telegraph stations for the purpose of instructing officers and men at Newport, N. Y., San Francisco and probably other naval stations. In order to ascertain the effect of heat, which is said to be injurious to the successful working of wireless apparatus, a station will be established at Key West, Fla.

Although other naval powers are far in advance of the United States in the installation of wireless telegraph appliances on board naval ships, Rear Admiral Bradford does not think any ground has been lost by the United States in pursuing a conservative policy in the adoption of some particular system for use in the navy.

Many vessels are now ready for the installation of wireless apparatus and others are being prepared. No satisfactory results have yet been obtained by the board of officers in charge of the tests of the various systems, and it is proposed to purchase other instruments for trial before a selection is made. Four systems of wireless telegraphy have been developed in Europe which seem promising. The bureau has purchased two sets of each and certain appliances from the makers which appeared promising. Attention is called to the opportunity for officers of studying wireless telegraphy, only three having been engaged in this work thus far. In foreign navies commissions of distinguished officers are engaged solely in this service.

In regard to the construction to the trans-Pacific cable, Rear Admiral Bradford reports that so far as he is aware, the Commercial Pacific Cable company has signified no intention of following the government requirement for building a cable as specified by the president. The report says that, although the officers of the company appeared anxious before the adjournment of congress to obtain the Pacific cable surveys made by the department, no application has been made at the department for this information. The report says that no statement has been given out concerning the route the company intends to follow, nor have steps been taken to prepare lay stations on American territory considered necessary by the department, with the exception of the acquiring of the site for landing the cable near Honolulu.

In 61 foreign ports agreements have been made to supply ships of the navy with coal at below current rates. Admiral Bradford says that owing to the lack of naval coal depots the fleet narrowly escaped being left without coal last summer as a result of the strike. He adds:

"Should there be a general strike of bituminous coal miners or employes of roads carrying coal to the tidewater, or in transport station lines generally, the ships of the navy would at present be helpless."

To overcome this danger it is recommended that large stocks of coal be kept on hand at all times and places at convenient depots along the coasts. Rear Admiral Bradford expects that the demand for these depots will be even greater in the future, in view of the changing politics of the world.

It is recommended that Port Royal, S. C., which probably is to be abandoned for use as a naval station, be the site of a naval coal depot.

Admiral Bradford suggests that a storage capacity of 25,000 tons should be secured at the Guam naval station, with adequate means for handling the coal rapidly, as this port will undoubtedly become an important port of call with the competition of the isthmian canal.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE PILGRIMAGE OF DOUKHOBORS

By Associated Press.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—The Doukhobers belonging to the Swan river district, were unloaded from the cars this morning at Yorkton and another chapter in their pilgrimage was begun. At a late hour Inspector Pedley, Agent Speers and an interpreter went through the train and told the Russians that they would be started for home; that wagons would be provided and that they might ride if they chose, but if they did not they would be compelled to march on foot. A number of policemen were lined up and the Doukhobers followed their leaders from the train.

Everything went smoothly for the first quarter of a mile when a halt was made and several of the leaders were loaded in the wagons, which against their will. The procession started very slowly and difficulty was experienced in keeping the marchers from turning back. They seemed to be in a rebellious mood and it is believed that much difficulty will be experienced before they are landed upon their farms. They had reached a point 12 miles north of Yorkton tonight and their villages are expected to be reached tomorrow night. Before departing for the north Agent Speers said:

"If they resist on the homeward journey we will use force as we did at Minnedosa and drive them to the north. We realize now that we must treat these people as children and must make them obey."

Speers attributes the trouble largely to the leaders, whom he believes to be very shrewd.

"Some time ago," he said, "the government warned the Doukhobors that if they did not homestead their farms that the land would be thrown open for settlement. The leaders objected to this and asked for concessions. Fearing that they would not get them they have been attempting to force the hands of the government by inducing their easily led countrymen to make a pilgrimage, under a pretense of looking for Jesus. Their movements have been vague and indefinite but just the same there has been method in the madness of their leaders.

"In doing as I did at Minnedosa it was largely upon my own authority, the situation being one that demands immediate action. Had 500 half starved Russians started out on their tramp across the prairie in the face of the blizzard that was raging the morning would have revealed a terrible story. I have no hesitation in saying that I believe scores of them would have been frozen corpses. They were bent on self-destruction if necessary to continue their journey, and our action in preventing them surely cannot be criticised."

JOCKEY'S SUIT.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The case of Milton Henry, the American jockey who entered suit against the American Jockey club for $40,000 damages as the result of his recent suspension, came up before the civil court of the Seine today. The case was not discussed, arguments being set for November 25.

Then you should always have handy a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. J. C. Anderson, 581 West Fifth St., Salt Lake City, writes: "We use Ballard's Horehound Syrup for coughs and colds. It gives immediate relief. We know it's the best remedy for these troubles. I write this to induce other people to try this pleasant and effective remedy." 25c, 50c and $1.00 at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

SOME FACTS ABOUT "MAID MARIAN" HERE THIS EVENING

Theater goers who expect to hear "Maid Marian" by the Bostonians at the Opera house tonight, and those who do not expect to go as well, will be interested in the following comment on the opera by Reginald De Koven himself. In speaking for himself and Mr. Smith, librettist, Mr. De Koven said recently:

"We first got the idea of 'Maid Marian' four or five years ago, and as a sequel to 'Robin Hood' would only be done properly by the Bostonians, we had this fact in view all the time. Mr. Smith has taken up the story of 'Robin Hood' from where the curtain dropped on the third act, and the three acts of 'Maid Marian' have all the old English color of 'Robin Hood' varied by a scene laid in the Crusade. Mr. Smith has been eminently successful with the atmosphere of 'Maid Marian,' and has preserved the artistic feeling of the story throughout without once going outside the picture. In my humble judgment it is the best book he has ever turned out, and it has even more strength than 'Robin Hood.' The piece is coherent, and would play well as a comedy without music. Smith has cleverly reproduced the old character in 'Robin Hood' in a fresh way. In fact they are old friends in a new guise. He has been particularly happy in suggesting to me as composer, titles of lyrics, and although it is varied, has retained the atmosphere which made 'Robin Hood.'

"People expect something like the 'Armorer's Song,' and this they have in the 'Cellarer's Toast,' which is as unique in character, although varied in theme and treatment. It has been incumbent on us to reproduce certain characters of numbers, and this has been done with a sextet glee, the song of the two blue bottle flies, and other numbers. A particularly happy lyric is 'The Monk and the Magpie,' which details the adventures of a monk who tried to teach speech to a magpie. An absolutely novel scene is the opening of the third act, which shows an empty stage set in the style of an old baronial castle through the stained glass windows of which the moon throws its soft beams. Outside the snow is falling and the Christmas waits sing a typical chorus. Inside, the great yule log blazes merrily, the boar's head is brought in for the feast, and the country folk dance a pretty, old movement."

YOUNG MAN WHO PASSED BAD CHECK IS WANTED

Harry Takimori, a Japanese who conducts a restaurant at 2 East Pike's Peak, is seeking a young man supposed to be Harry R. Hilton, who gave him a check for $25 which has proven to be worthless. The check was drawn in favor of Harry R. Hilton and purported to be signed by H. W. Bradley, proprietor of the Brunswick billiard hall and bowling alleys in the Midland block. The young man gave it to Takimori Saturday night in payment for a bill he owed at the restaurant and received $10 in change. It is presumed that he has left the city and it is thought that he took with him the gold medal offered by H. Strang at the Brunswick alleys for the bowler making the high score. The medal was on exhibition in one of the show windows at the alleys and it is thought that Hilton "lifted" it as he had been about there more or less.

MYSTERIOUS INDIVIDUAL REPORTED IN NORTH END

All kinds of excitement reigned on North Nevada in the 600 block last evening. It was reported to the police that a man had been prowling about that vicinity for several nights and the women were very badly frightened. The man was described as being young and well dressed and one woman said that he had a bicycle. Officers Scofield and Thomas made an investigation but were unable to locate the man, whose actions are described as being very suspicious.

THE KNIGHT-CAMPBELL MUSIC CO.

Removed to New Lennox Building---Occupies Largest and Prettiest Music Store in Colorado Springs.

GRAND OPENING SALE OF PIANOS

Commenced This Morning---Dedicating Their New Store and Offering Big Inducements for People to Visit New Quarters This Week. Biggest Cut in Piano Prices in History of Colorado Springs.

This paper has often had occasion to print particulars of some important undertaking of this large music concern, but at no time has it noted an event which will redound more to the credit of Colorado Springs and to the benefit of Colorado Springs people, who have no piano in their home.

Information reached this paper some time ago to the effect that the Knight-Campbell Music Co. were finding the store which they have so long occupied entirely too small and not well adapted to the proper showing of their immense stock of Pianos, Piano-players, Organs and Music Boxes, and last week we were advised of their having leased and moved into the new Lennox building.

We are told that the present inauguration of a Grand Opening Sale is for the purpose of furnishing an opportunity with a big inducement for people to visit the new store, and Mr. S. J. Kellerman—Colorado Springs manager of the Knight-Campbell Music Co.—has told us that it is the desire of his company to furnish an opportunity for the purchase of a piano at greatly reduced prices in view of the near approach of Xmas time.

Mr. Kellerman has further stated that his entire stock, including every make of piano handled by his company, will be marked in plain figures—figures representing a most substantial discount from the regular prices.

Even the Steinway Piano, says Mr. Kellerman, will not be exempted from this price-cutting, and then there are the A. B. Chase, the Weber, the Everett, the Fischer, Kimball, Ludwig, Smith & Barnes, Franklin, Whitney, Hinze and the new Robert M. Cable and the new Barnes & Son pianos have been lately added to our stock.

These are only some of the pianos which will be offered to callers at our store this week at prices never before offered anywhere.

We have, in addition, quite a number of pianos which have been taken in exchange—Chickering & Sons, Whitney, Vose & Sons, W'bare, Hallett & Davis, and several others, all upright pianos.

Pianos from $125 to $150, $175 to $200 and $500, that really are worth a great deal more money.

Brand new pianos from $185 up.

A very little money will go a long way in this "sale." Pianos will be delivered at once, or arrangements may be made for its delivery on Xmas eve.

Store will be open every evening.

[illegible] STEGNER [illegible] CHARGE OF PROMOTING MINING FRAUD

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10.—Theodore Stegner of this city, a well-known promoter, was today indicted by the grand jury on a charge of promoting a mining fraud. The case was worked up by a local postoffice inspector, who presented evidence to the jury tending to show that Stegner, who advertised for sale shares in a copper mining company in Arizona, represented that the company owned four mines, whereas, it is alleged, it controlled but one. Stegner has lived in Kansas City for the past twenty years.

The incident mentions three counts, each being a separate letter Stegner wrote to persons with whom he had dealings and who purchased stock. His company was called the Pillsbury Copper Mining and Reduction company, and was capitalized at two and a half million dollars. The prospectus of the company set out, that it was engaged in mining operations in Yuma and Mohave counties, in Arizona, and that it owned the Green Signal, Waverstein, Argentine and Azul claims. The grand jury found in its indictment that only the Green Signal claim was actually owned by the corporation. Stegner, the finding of the jury says, sold stock to persons and induced them to purchase stock and turn money over to him which the indictment alleges he converted to his own use. Two men, both of them school teachers, were directly responsible for Stegner's arrest. One of them is H. M. Richmond, a professor at the William Jewell college in Liberty, Mo. The other is R. N. Richmond, a brother, who lives in Adams, Mich. These men are said to have invested $200 in the company and to have remitted $5,000 in payment for stock sold by them.

It is further charged that Stegner sent letters to the Richmonds in which he made this statement: "We have started shipping copper, and will soon be shipping ore," when he knew, says the indictment, that the property was non-producing. Other letters giving glowing reports about the conditions in Arizona were written by Stegner from time to time.

All the letters on which the indictment is based were written during August, 1901. The mining properties were specifically known as being in Box canon on Big Williams Fork river, not more than 50 miles from Congress Junction, Arizona. All this ground was carefully gone over two weeks ago by Postoffice Inspector McKee, who furnished practically all the evidence upon which the grand jury based its findings.

Stegner was also interested in various other companies, among them the Arizona Gold and Copper Refining company and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Oil company. He was accompanied in court today by his attorney. Efforts are being made to have him released on bond until the time of his trial.

Stegner went to Denver from Kansas City in the early 90's. He was the chief promoter of the Elk Mountain railroad and organized the Senator Mining and Milling company, and his connection with the latter company brought him into notoriety. A mining paper attacked Stegner's method, and Stegner assaulted the editor, Edward G. Reinert.

Baggage Returns Show Big Increase Over a Year Ago.

There may possibly be a few people in town who imagine that Colorado Springs is getting deaf as far as tourists are concerned as the winter approaches.

Baggage Master Ed. Carey at the Denver & Rio Grande depot has just handed in his report of the company of baggage handled by him and his assistants during the month of October. This report shows that over 3,000 more pieces of baggage have been handled by the three roads that enter the city at this depot during the month of October, 1902, than were handled during the corresponding month of 1901. There were 13,369 pieces of baggage handled last month, whereas only a little over 10,000 were handled in October, 1901. This report includes all kinds of baggage, trunks, valises, satchels, etc., but, basing calculations upon three pieces to one person, which is the usual figure, this would indicate that over 1,000 people traveled over these roads during October, and either came here, stopped off here, or left the city. The winter rates for Colorado that are being advocated so strongly by the local and state hotel men will prove a big thing in increasing the present railroad business. Baggage Master Carey says that business is better every month and the amount of baggage handled is growing all the time.

TO KILL SALT TRUST.

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—After U. S. Attorney Woodworth had concluded argument today in the United States circuit court upon his petition to destroy the Federal Salt company and its associates as a trust, U. S. Circuit Judge Morrow ordered that the temporary injunction be made permanent as to all the defendants except the Imperial Salt company, which was not shown to have been a member of the trust. Judge Morrow intimated very broadly that should his decision be appealed from the United States circuit court of appeals, following its reasoning in the Red Cedar shingle trust, the Tile, Mantel and Grate trusts and the coal trust would sustain the injunction. The decision kills the salt trust.

An order was made citing the officials of the Inland Crystal Salt company of Salt Lake to show cause why the injunction should not be made perpetual against that firm also.

American Shipyards Are More Than Equal to All Demands.

American shipyards of a thoroughly new, progressive type now exist far in excess of the present demands of our ocean commerce. They are capable of the heaviest and most elaborate construction. They are furnished with labor-saving machinery, which is only tardily being adopted by the shipyards of Europe. Yet this splendid industry is not prosperous in the sense of having a great amount of work assured for the immediate future to maintain activities which here and there are already faltering.

Turning from the shipyards to the sea, one finds the same strange state of arrested development. The American merchant marine in foreign service shows no present sign of real large growth, and only one new line of freight ships is reaching out to challenge Europe's monopoly of distant carrying. The established American steamship lines in foreign trade are not difficult to number. There is, first, the International Navigation company's mail service with four swift, large steamers, St. Paul, St. Louis, New York and Philadelphia, from New York to Southampton, the only transatlantic fleet beneath the Stars and Stripes. Then there is the extensive Pacific Mail service from New York to the Isthmus of Panama, from Panama and Central America to San Francisco, and from San Francisco to Yokohama and Hong-kong. There is the Oceanic line from San Francisco to Australia. Again in the Atlantic there are the New York and Cuba Mail, or Ward, line from New York to Cuba and Mexico, the "Red D" line from New York to Venezuela, and the United Fruit company's service in four ships of the "Admiral" class between Boston and Philadelphia and Jamaica. This brief list exhausts the regular important American steamship enterprises now engaged in foreign carrying.—(From "The American Ship in 1902," by Winthrop L. Marvin in the November Scribner's.

The President on Tariff and Trusts.

President Roosevelt's address at Cincinnati is unmistakably the strongest public utterance he has made during his speaking itinerary. He states the different points of view with clearness and precision and gives a mortal blow to the theory that tariff reduction is a cure for the evils of trusts. He made with telling emphasis, the point, so often presented in these pages, that to whatever extent a reduction of tariff would cripple the very large corporations it would more seriously injure the small ones in the same industry, and entire removal of protective duties would be fatal to the small concerns.

Thus the effect of that policy would be, not to lessen the monopolistic element in large corporations, but to increase it by killing all the small competitors. If the tariff has any effect at all upon the prosperity of these concerns, it has the most helpful effect on the small ones. Its tendency, therefore, is to insure competition by perpetuating the existence of the smaller competitors. The result of protection is to help wholesome competition among domestic industries, and not to foster monopoly. The abolition of protection would be to destroy competition and make monopoly much more easy to accomplish.

Much of the president's Cincinnati speech was sound and strong, and his best friends might well wish that he had delivered none other.—Gunton's Magazine for October.

Immigrants Are Looked Upon as Cargo.

One of the biggest liners sailing out of France, with 800 steerage passengers aboard, was selected for observing the manner of handling steerage passengers bound for America.

A firm conclusion reached after the experience of that trip is that an immigrant of this class has to put up with much unnecessarily unpleasant treatment, first, simply because he is an immigrant, and therefore in judgment meriting it, and secondly, because, being what he is, he has not yet learned to protect himself. The picture conjured up by the term "immigrant," in the minds of those who have their eye en route is not at all the color of the vision that arises before us with the word. Here in America we have a notion of a band of earnest, and it may be, if we are uncharitable, worn and unwashed men and women with families (though the family and the washing are really outside for the moment), hurrying from hard conditions of life—scant underpaid labor, ignorance, oppression, misrule—pressing on to what they must conceive to be a bright land of promise, or they would not be coming here—to a glorious young country, where all men are free and equal and all that sort of thing. But the man who has to see that these immigrants are given food and bunk, and that they do not fall sick below, has no such fancies; his sympathy, he will tell you, is not for the immigrants, but for the country that is to get them.

Those in charge of the immigrant from southern Europe will tell you that he is not a desirable creature. They have handled many, many thousands of his kind, and they should know something of him now. The company transports him, it is true, but as to that, he is freight, freight of good profit. The company would take freight to the highest degree distasteful, if so be the rates were paid. Indeed, yes, it is business. There is a large profit in the immigrant—oh, yes—but as a fellow-passenger, he is—oh, well, repulsive, repugnant, or whatever you say in your language.—(From "In the Paths of Immigration," by James B. Connolly in the November Scribner's.

Christmas in the Hudson Bay Region.

Christmas day is welcomed at the northern fur posts of the great Hudson's Bay company by a firing of cannon from the snow-muffled bastions. Before the stars have faded chapel services begin. Frequently, on either Christmas or New Year day, a grand feast is given the tawny-skinned habitues of the fort, who come shuffling to the main messroom with no other announcement than the lifting of the latch, and billet themselves on the hospitality of a host that has never turned hungry Indian from its doors.

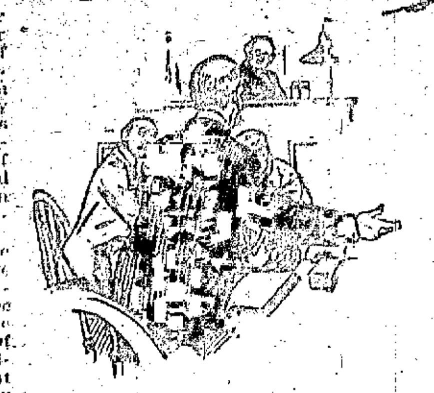
A great jangling of bells announces the huskies (dog trains) scambering over the crusted snow drifts. A babel of barks and curses follows, for the huskies celebrate their arrival by tangling themselves up in their harness and enjoying a free fight.

Dogs unharnessed, in troop the trappers to the banquet hall, flinging packs of tightly roped peltries down promiscuously, to be sorted next day. One Indian enters just as he has left the hunting field, clad from head to heel in white caribou, with the antlers left on the capote as a decoy. His squaw has togged out for the occasion in a comical medley of brass bracelets and finger rings, with a bear's-claw necklace and ermine ruff which no city connoisseur could possibly mistake for rabbit. If a daughter yet remains unappropriated she will display the gayest attire—red flannel galore, red shawl, red scarf, with perhaps an apron of white fox skin and moccasins garnished in colored grasses. The braves outdo even a vain young squaw. Whole fox, mink or otter skins have been braided to the end of their hair and hung down in two plaits to the floor. Whitest of buckskin has been ornamented with brightest of beads, and over all hangs the gaudiest of blankets; it may be a musk-ox skin with the feats of the warrior in rude drawings on the smooth side.

Of the feast little need be said. Like the camel, the Indian lays up store for the morrow, auguring from his capacity for weeks of morrows.

A French-Canadian fiddler strikes up a tuneless jig that sets the Indians pounding the floor in figureless dances with moccasined heels till midday glides into midnight and midnight to morning. I remember hearing of one such midday feast in Red River settlement that prolonged itself past 4 of the second morning.—(Agnes C. Laut, in Leslie's Monthly for November.

Queer Law Case.



Not long ago a trial was reported where a man sued a medicine concern which had offered $100 for a case their remedy could not cure. The man had taken the remedy but had not been cured. The defence was that he had not taken the medicine long enough. He did not get the $100.

High School Students Had a Consolation Meeting

The High school auditorium yesterday morning was the scene of a kind of consolation meeting in which the students discussed how the defeat of the local team by the football team from Golden High School on Washburn Field, Saturday, took place. Principal Mason gave a short talk to the school on the subject of the game previous to the opening of school. Principal Mason characterizes the defeat as the result of [illegible] lack, a great deal, but also censured the team on over-confidence and several of the points of play on which the local team were deficient. The members of the team are sore, of course, over the defeat, but are preparing to get down for business to meet Boulder Preps a week from next Saturday. There are bad tales coming from the land of the Preps, tales of the mightiness of the men, and what they are likely to do to the local school. Judging by the scores of the games of the past few weeks the local school is somewhat outclassed by the Boulderites. The locals beat West Denver by a score of 29 to 0 and the same team was defeated by the Preps by a score of 45 to 0 last Saturday. Boulder beat Golden 28 to 6 and Golden beat the locals 16 to 5. While the scores of these games cannot be depended upon to give a forecast of the Preps-Colorado Springs game, it looks mighty bad for the local school eleven at the present time and unless they improve considerably in the next two weeks there is no hope for them for the championship banner. The worst part of it is the locals meet the Preps on the Boulder grounds, but they assert that the Preps play worse at home than away from home. The old C. S. H. S. spirit that has dominated so many of the High school teams in the past in this city is displayed again by the members of this city, however, and the local boys say that they will take the game on the 22nd. Principal Mason is pretty well informed on the Boulder plays and the team is being coached upon them.

The defeat by Boulder was on a series of trick plays and the locals were taken completely by surprise. Several of the members of the team say that the reported fumble of Lennox in the first half which resulted in Hemberger securing the ball and running 90 yards down the field fowards his goal, was not a fumble at all, that the ball was pushed out of his hand. While this may have been the case, the Golden players are a nervy lot, and had they been in good physical training the score might have been augmented. Heretofore this season the High school has met teams that were easy marks for them and when they ran up against a strong team they were not prepared for them. It behooves every man in the squad to get right down and work and work hard for the next 10 days for the game with Boulder. On this game depends Colorado Springs' chances for the banner. If this game is lost the brown and white will be out of the race entirely as far as this season is concerned. A victory over Boulder would likely bring up some strange complications in the interscholastic league, but it could doubtless be arranged to play another game with Boulder to decide who should line up with East Denver or the Manualh for the honors of the league. Principal Mason and Prof. Dybach of the faculty, will be out with the team every evening from now on. A good point for the team to practice on would be interference. The Golden team demonstrated what could be done along this line on Saturday's game. When a play was made every man on the team was in the play and in several of the plays, especially those around left end, the interference of the Golden men was especially good. It would be well to practice the returning of punts a la Hartzell, and Sheafor needs to get in more practice on offensive work. Now is the time for the High school boys to show what they are made of, whether they will get "cold feet" and back out, or jump in and do something.

The High school will go to Pueblo Saturday and play a game with the Central High school of that city. The High school had no games scheduled for that date and decided to go down to the Smelter City to see if they are really as bad as they think they are. The team will leave early in the morning and return late Saturday evening. All of the team with the exception of Jones and Nye are in fair condition. Nye is troubled with a bad case of "Charley horse" and may not be able to play any more this season.

Antlers Team Will Play on Brunswick Alleys

The Antlers team and the Pike's Peak team will line up on the new Brunswick bowling alleys this evening for their fifth match game of the season. The contest tonight will be in the nature of the rub game as both teams have won two and lost two games. The Antlers opponents have just taken the name of the Pike's Peak bowling team and hope under that name to continue to win laurels as they have during the forepart of the present season. The Pike's Peak team is composed of some of the best bowlers in the city and are on a par with the members of the Antlers teams who have always been considered the leading team of the city. The four games played so far this season between the two teams has demonstrated that they are about evenly matched and an interesting contest is expected tonight. This will be the first game to be held on the new Brunswick alleys which have just been remodeled. The completion of these alleys will doubtless be appreciated by the lovers of the game as it will give them more room in which to play, the Antlers alleys heretofore, being the only first-class public alleys in the city. The match games tonight will be called at 8 o'clock. Following is the personnel of the two teams: Antlers team—De Berry, captain; Graham, W. Ansley, Taylor and McClemmens; Pike's Peak team—Ellison, captain; Stanley, Winstanley, Wagner and Ford.

THE QUESTION OF CONTROL OF THE ISLE OF PINES

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The question of control of the Isle of Pines was brought today directly to the attention of President Roosevelt. A delegation of citizens of the United States residing in the Isle of Pines was introduced to the president by Senator Cullom, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations. The president was informed that more than half of the island is owned by American citizens and that many had made large investments in the island under the belief that the United States would own it.

As a result of the turning over of the Island of Pines to the republic of Cuba for administrative purposes, things are said by the delegation to be in a chaotic state on the island. There is not a notary public or a judicial officer on the island. The delegation is informed that the republic of Cuba claims the Isle of Pines and proposes to establish prisons, penal colonies and a leper hospital there. Such a course, if pursued, the delegation indicated to the president, would wipe out every dollar invested in the island.

President Roosevelt promised to consider the subject, but indicated no line of procedure he was likely to take.

LORD MAYOR'S PROCESSION.

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 10.—Today, for the first time in the history of London, the lord mayor's procession traversed the unfashionable thoroughfare of Petticoat lane, in the heart of the Ghetto in recognition of the Jewish ancestry of Sir Marcus Samuel, the new lord mayor. Jewish London especially celebrated the event. The poorest inhabitants of White Chapel and Hounds Ditch were banqueted at the expense of their wealthier co-religionists.

The quaint annual progress of the chief executive of the city through the streets of the metropolis was probably more brilliant than usual. Seven richly decorated floats and 15 bands representing crack regiments, together with the city officials, and the London guilds, made up a goodly pageant. A unique feature was a float representative of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, surmounted by the arms of both countries and surrounded by a guard of Japanese and British blue jackets. The procession left the Gould hall at 11, traversed the principal streets of the old city of London to the law courts, where, according to custom, the lord mayor was formally presented to the lord chief justice and was sworn in.

[illegible] New "Northwestern Line"

The "Northwestern Line" was well represented in Colorado Springs yesterday by E. H. Lamb, the regular traveling agent, and D. W. Aldridge, general agent for the company at Denver, were in the city looking after various matters of interest to the company. The Northwestern road is known all over the country as one having some of the most able and popular railway men in the land and its representatives and the gentlemen who spent yesterday here in the interest of that company are no exception to this rule.

Mr. Aldredge stated that the Northwestern had experienced a season during the past summer that speaks well for the future of Colorado as a summer resort country. His company has spent thousands of dollars advertising the beauties and the wonders of this section of the country and millions in equipping its line for handling the traffic that results from the advertising that it does. During the past summer the completion of the Northwestern's double track from Chicago to the Missouri river has been achieved, it being the first line to unite the Missouri river country and the Great lakes with a double band of steel. The roadbed of this line is maintained in perfect condition and the rolling stock that comes over it is the best product of the car-builder's skill. Mr. Aldredge is a great booster for everything in Colorado, going on the principle that what helps Colorado helps the railway that he represents. He thinks the Short Line to be one of the star attractions of this state and has no hesitancy in pronouncing it one of the finest pieces of railway construction that he ever saw anywhere.

One of the most interesting bits of railway literature that has ever been published is the little illustrated pamphlet issued by the Northwestern upon the completion of its double track to Omaha. It takes the road from the year 1848, when it was the Galena and Chicago Union railroad, to the present day, being a history of the railroad itself and of the country in which it now has more than 8,000 miles of track, that is well worth anyone's reading. The maps and illustrations that it contains are of real value as well as of great interest.

[illegible] Estate Expenses

[illegible] W. [illegible]

J. B. Braidwood, agent for William Clark, the florist, yesterday filed a bill against the Stratton estate for $812.95 for flowers furnished at the funeral of the millionaire. It is understood that a floral bill, properly rendered, is regarded as a legitimate funeral expense. The bill is itemized as follows: Four dozen American beauties on September 17, at $5 per dozen; 550 American beauties on September 18, $193.90; 1075 roses on the 18th, $237; 600 carnations, $124; 10550 asters, $63; 215 phlox, $12.90; rent of bay trees, $35.50; smilax, $225; 2 dozen American beauties, $12; 10 strings smilax, $5; express, $1.60; carriages, $10; pins, 30 cents; cheese cloth, $2.25.

Whether the estate of the late Winfield Scott Stratton is liable for the housekeeping bills incurred by his relatives and heirs since his death should prove an interesting question. It is a matter for the court to decide because yesterday there was filed in the county court by W. D. Sommers and brother, of 113 South Tejon, claims for merchandise furnished at the Stratton home during October and November, since the death of the millionaire. Mr. Sommers stated last evening that the bills were sent in against the estate because he had received no orders or information to the contrary.

An error has apparently been made by the firm in the rendition of the accounts, however. Some of the items are marked to November 30, 1902, and between November 22 and November 30, and inasmuch as these dates have not yet come around, it is likely that the bills mean October. The total claim is $120.45, all for merchandise.

[illegible] Lectures [illegible] the "Cripple"

At a meeting of the teachers of the grades of the city schools held yesterday afternoon, "Nature Study" was the subject discussed and it was treated in many phases. The meeting was of such interest that another on the same subject is to be held at an early date.

Miss Margaret Russell of the Columbia school yesterday read a paper on "The Value of Nature Study." Mr. Downey, principal of the Steele school, read one on "Field Excursions." Prof. Jordan of the High school read a paper on "The Importance of the Microscope in Nature Study and How to Use It." Carleton Ayrhard of the department of physics in the High school spoke on "Elementary Experiments in Geology." Mr. Hunt also spoke along the same line. The attendance was excellent and the interest in the meeting was great.

Among the Rejected Immigrants.

However, there were several reflections. There was the old woman who had come with her daughter and her daughter's children. The daughter's husband had sent the money on from America, and they had been barely happy that morning. Three more days and they would be on the great steamship, and then'—it was but a short trip to America, then! But the old woman had a disease of the eyes. Did she not know? Know? and how should she know? Sickness of the eyes! She touched them with her fingers. Her eyes? She had seen to sew with them all her life. Why, she had sewn to make all the clothes for all the babies with them—for all the babies. Only the last night at home she had finished to dress the littlest one was ever to be wearing—oh—oh—the little baby! She looked over at the baby, and in her poor old eyes, despite the love of two generations, was seen the reason of the surgeon's decision. And the rejection held.

There was a young man and a girl trying to soothe him—not an uncommon case—talking bravely to him as they sat together, she on the top of a green box and he below her on a round bundle of bedding. They may have been mother and sister, they may have been betrothed—certainly they cared for each other, and now they were to part.

There was another, a man of middle age, who sat over in the corner, as far away as he could get, with his hand on and boxes about him. When the door of that room should be thrown open and the gate of the control station unlocked, he would go back and live out his life in a train to take him back to Russia. He was a strong one, who had earned his passage-money himself, but now the years of saving were gone for naught. He would go back and live out his life in hard Russia, not in beautiful America. Why had somebody not told him and spared him the extra toil? What for now were the nights and days of pleasure he had put aside? He looked about him. Dry as the old woman's eyes were his own hopeless eyes, but for him there was not even the prattle of a little child to lead to an hour's forgetfulness.—(From "On the Paths of Immigration," by James B. Connolly, in the November Scribner's.

A Night in a Foreign Immigrant Train.

It seemed to be a sort of accommodation train this, that bumped along after a way of its own and stopped at the smallest stations. All along the road people left the cars and went away—that is, from every car except theirs. They were locked in, although not on that account forgotten. Whenever they seemed to be side-tracked, or whenever, for one reason or another, the train halted for longer than five minutes, a man would come, always in uniform, stick his head through the upper part of the door and gaze around upon them, count them over, and check up the tally on what must have been his official list. "As if we would escape!" commented an immigrant with an eloquent shrug of the shoulders.

There was not much sleeping among them that night. They curled up on the benches and on the floor and pretended to sleep, but there was really very little sleeping among them. They had had a good sleep in the lodging house at Eyalliph on the night before, and because of that, and possibly because this was really their first night away from their own country, they did not feel quite like it. The babies slept, of course, though restlessly, with now and again a cry for the mother. It was rather a spiritless sort of car for young ones, but hey slept. At every station the more nervous of the others were up and crowding the square little windows to see what was doing outside. At such places there was a great banging of doors from the other cars, but nothing from their cars. Their doors were shut, and kept shut. But the guard, the inevitable man in uniform, kept looking in the same as ever, except that now, with the darkness covering all things, he held up a lantern.—(From "In the Paths of Immigration," by James B. Connolly, in the November Scribner's.

Women and Men as Audiences.

American audiences are strangely alike in some things and strangely dissimilar in others. A good committee will take as much pains in the arrangement of the audience as of its speakers. An audience seated without crowding is seldom enthusiastic. Neither is an audience whose hands are occupied with handies or umbrellas an audience largely composed of women, or an audience in a cold room. The coolest audiences to address, the most responsive and inspiring, are those composed of men, crowded and packed together and warm.

Women naturally do not applaud or cheer. They are by instinct more self-restrained in the public expression of their emotions than men. Every public speaker is complimented by their presence, knowing that their quiet word at home is oftentimes more effective in results than the most enthusiastic shouting on the streets comes by the other sex. In a public meeting, however, the audience gets its cue from those not for the speaker. I remember well two audiences, both from the same social class, both crowded, both in large theaters, and both largely attended by women. One happened to be in Colorado; one in Massachusetts. In one meeting the orchestra was reserved for women. In the other meeting the men had the orchestra and the women had the lower gallery and all the boxes. In both cases the audiences were entirely friendly to the speakers. The second meeting was marked by wild enthusiasm; the first one by respectful attention. In the second case the mass of men in the orchestra urged on the applause. In the first place the men in the galleries who started to applaud were checked because between them and the speakers was a mass of absolutely silent femininity in the orchestra. I do not say that one meeting was less effective than the other, but the difference in the strain on the speaker was marked.—(From "The Spellbinder," by Col. Curtis Guild, Jr., in the November Scribner's.

Gambling in Society.

"Although it is a general way the assertion that gambling by young men of fortune is decreasing is true, a part of the average wealthy bachelor's income must be dedicated as a tribute to the Goddess of Fortune. He plays occasionally in a gentleman's game of poker. After a fine dinner he may try roulette or faro in one of the gambling houses that are nominally run as private clubs. These private gambling houses are expensively appointed to suit the sybaritic taste of such young men. There is no ostentatious scrambling for winnings in them, nor does the loser bewail his losses. They are run in accordance with the strictest ethics of the gambler's code. To one of these houses last winter a young bachelor of New York took his friends one evening after dinner, and when he had finished playing he gave the proprietor his check for $250,000 to balance their accounts. Bridge whist has proved even more expensive to many an unskilled man than poker or faro, because it has flourished as a social diversion in which women might join without losing caste. One young woman, whose social position is unquestioned, said proudly at the opera last winter that a diamond necklace which she wore had been purchased with her bridge whist winnings of the month before, and no one of her circle of friends found in this statement anything but a reason for congratulating her on her skill. Another woman, a matron in whose train may be found the wealthiest and the purest bachelors of New York's smart society, gave a series of Saturday night bridge-whist dinners and the play which followed them was so high that several fashionable preachers found merely texts in it. Another form of polite gambling is called, euphemistically, speculation in stocks, and so far as reaching has been its influence during the past five years that few young bachelors of wealth have escaped it. Those forms of dispensing wealth like a gentleman must not be overlooked in cataloguing the actual expenses of the millionaire bachelor; and to them should be added a good many different kinds of wagers made during the year."

One American Bachelor.

"The American bachelor, par excellence, a man of international reputation as a bachelor, keeps up in excellent style a big country place in New Jersey, and, when he needs it, a house of his own on Fifth avenue. He is a professional bachelor, though still a comparatively young man. There are, of course, rumors of an unfortunate love affair to account for his being unmarried. Those who know him best say that he is a social philanthropist, who would sacrifice himself rather than rob society by marrying. The late Ward McAllister, who, among many foolish things, said some surprisingly wise ones, asserted that this man was the most luxurious unmarried man in America. He is also one of the wealthiest. His fortune of twenty million dollars was left to him by a rich manufacturer, who had the honor to be his father. Probably it is more than twenty million dollars now. There have been shrewd guesses that he spends nearly a million a year and so well does he do it that no one has arisen to call him a spendthrift. It is due to this gentleman to say that his reputation here and abroad has not been of his seeking, and that it was thrust upon him with no carping criticism. All the world desires to know what an exceptionally wealthy bachelor does with his money, and this one has been at no loss to find a legitimate outlet for his income. He may make a pretense of business, but he is really a man of leisure, that being the misnomer for a man of his class whose time is very fully occupied with the sports in which he is interested and with the obligations which society imposes. He spends on a horse [illegible] man. There are frequently from forty to sixty well-selected horses in his perfectly-appointed stables in New Jersey. Perhaps he is best known here and in England and France as a 'coacher' or driver of coaches. His feat of tooling a coach from Paris to Trouville, a distance of one hundred and forty miles, in ten hours and two minutes, several years ago, is still a pleasant topic of conversation in the French capital. He was also at one time the champion fencer of this country. He owns and has in commission regularly a fifteen-hundred-ton steam yacht that is one of the handsomest private boats afloat. On this yacht, to run which costs as much as many an ocean passenger steamer, he takes a dozen or more friends for long cruises, entertaining them ashore as well as afloat. If he were not pre-eminent as a thorough sportsman, he would be as a princely entertainer. There have been occasions when he has entertained at breakfast, at his country place, all the members of a neighboring hunt club, and the scene on his lawn later, with the huntsmen in their red coats, the eager horses, and the great variety of traps of those who did not choose to ride, must have been recompense enough for him. In the months which he spends on his New [illegible] estate he house is always filled with guests. For their amusement he plans old-fashioned tournaments in which the queen of beauty crowns the victor, polo games on his own field, and golf on his own course. Back of the house is an oval half-mile track for racing, and overlooking it is an ornamental grand stand large enough to accommodate a hundred or more of his guests. There are racquet courts and tennis courts, and, if any of his guests profess a desire for other amusements, they are provided. It is more as a country gentleman than as a city man that this notable bachelor spends his income."

A Royal Mail Man.

General John B. Castleman, of Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, has secured the contract as rural mail-carrier between that place and Burgin. General Castleman will carry the mail in a coach and four, with outriders and a trumpeter all in gorgeous scarlet coats. The example is one which might well be followed by rich young men over the country who have been trying to establish regular coaching routes through the picturesque scenery of the rural districts. These coaching routes have not proved more successful because they had no regular and useful object. Let them now take on government contracts as rural mail-carriers, and that difficulty will be done away with. What could more pleasantly interrupt the monotony of a coaching trip than to rein in the panting, pie-bald chargers at each fat, red farm-house, while the man in scarlet winds his horn and waits while the barefoot boy runs down the dewy lane to get the last copy of the Weekly Countryman and the regular letter from big brother Tom in the city. Such a regular duty would lend a "certain dignity" to coaching which is now lacking. The rich young coachman might well feel, also, a thrill of patriotic pride at the thought that, in one way at least, they were serving their country. And my lady on the box would find plenty of added opportunity to study the habits and costumes—to say nothing of the postal cards—of her humbler countrymen.—(Harper's Weekly.

[illegible] Judges Will Hold Meeting in Denver Nov. 17

Sunday the five county judges constituting the committee representing all the judges of the state in compiling the revision of the probate laws of Colorado concluded their session in this city and adjourned. Another meeting is to be held in Denver, November 17. The task is one of the most laborious ever undertaken by the legal fraternity as represented by the courts of Colorado and not before the legislature convenes will it be entirely completed. The proposed changes are to be submitted to a general meeting of the judges and passed upon by them. It is likely that they will be accepted with few further revisions. As proposed the revisions decided upon by the committee will make a most sweeping change in the statutes and will greatly simplify the work of the courts.

The Summit of Pike's Peak Surrendered to the Elements

"And the cat came back."

J. G. Hiestand, proprietor of the hotel on the summit of the Peak is wondering if the old adage relating to the return of wandering felines will prove true in the case of the black specimen of the felis domestica that was left at the hotel yesterday morning when the establishment was closed for the season. The arrival of the cat at the summit of the Peak several weeks ago was a strange occurrence and its remaining on the Peak was equally so. When the occupants of the Summit house awoke one morning about a month ago they were astonished to hear the screaming of some animal which was running around the house making all kinds of noises. So hastily donning their clothes and securing broom, sticks and other weapons of offense and defense they sallied forth to find that the cause of all the disturbance was only a poor half frozen tabby, which had reached the summit in some inaccountable manner, no one knows how. Its hearing apparatus was not visible as Jack Frost had taken undue liberties with the poor beast and there was nothing remaining but the stubs. The people at the Summit house endeavored to get the cat to come in doors, but it was several days before it could be coaxed to do so. It finally became quite reconciled to its surroundings despite the fact that a great many people say that cats cannot live at that altitude. When the Summit house was closed for the season, yesterday, in the hurry and bustle of the departure, kitty was forgotten. Whether the animal will decide to descend the mountain or spend the winter as the sole occupant of the Peak is not known, but the animal's record for traveling seems to point to the first supposition. It may remain to make war upon the famous mountain rats that inhabit the territory around the summit.

Business for the year closed yesterday. The cog road ran their last excursion of the season Sunday. Nearly 100 people took advantage of the low rates and visited the summit, many of them being members of the Bostonians opera troupe. The hotel was closed yesterday and everything packed away for the winter. Everything was closed except a part of the restaurant building, which was left, open for the few possible tourists that may prove more successful than discreet and play the game of freeze-out ascending the Peak. The pipes were all pulled out of the water tanks along the line and nothing, not even a work train will be run to the summit during the remainder of the winter.

THE SENATORIAL QUESTION IN COLORADO.

IT IS REPORTED from Denver that Mr. Henry Brady and others have opened a campaign bureau at one of the hotels, with the purpose of securing the election of ex Senator Wolcott to the United States senate.

Such a measure is premature, to say the least.

At the present time and upon the face of the returns a majority of the next assembly is Democratic, and neither Mr. Wolcott nor any other Republican has the slightest chance of securing an election as senator unless the Democratic members elect from Arapahoe county are unseated.

Every Republican member of the legislature ought to approach this question, which deeply concerns the government of this state and which has a most important bearing upon the future of the Republican party, with judicial calm and fairness.

No Republican member of the legislature should pledge himself to Mr. Wolcott to Mr. Goudy, to Mr. Dixon or to anybody else in advance of the meeting of the legislature in January, at which time the legislature should act upon the evidence of fraud in Denver in a judicial manner and unhampered by senatorial pledges. If it is found that the people of Colorado really did elect a Republican majority of the assembly it will then be plenty of time to consider what is best for the state in the matter of the election of a United States senator.

In the meantime it ill becomes Mr. Wolcott or any other candidate to press his claims upon the Republican senators and representatives-elect.

And the people have not forgotten, however it may be with Mr. Brady and others, the events that preceded the Republican victory and made that victory possible.

The first and most essential step was the withdrawal of ex-Senator Wolcott from the senatorial race. This was announced by himself in unmistakable language. It was accepted by the people of this state as sincere and reliable, and it was welcomed by Republicans as a necessary condition of party success. This was followed by the absence of Mr. Wolcott from the state, and his retirement from active participation in the campaign, both of which were equally welcome to the Republicans and unsatisfactory to the Democrats.

During the progress of the campaign Mr. Wolcott fortunately did nothing and fortunately contributed nothing for the Republican cause, and it was the knowledge of this among the people of the state that made Republican success certain.

In numerous instances in the state Republican candidates for the legislature announced openly and over their own signatures that they were not for Mr. Wolcott and would not under any circumstances vote for him for the senate, and it was these declarations that made their election possible.

The strongest argument the Democratic speakers and newspapers could make in the campaign was the threat of Wolcott, and the argument failed simply because the voters did not believe it was true.

It may suit the purposes of the Wolcott lieutenants to distribute the contents of the Wolcott barrel among the heelers and hangers-on of the Capital city, but such a proceeding is the reverse of favorable to the cause of the Republican party of the state, and it cannot have any influence in securing support for Mr. Wolcott's candidacy from Republican senators and representatives who are duly elected and who are taking up their legislative responsibilities with a proper regard for the welfare of the party and the interests of the people.

It is further reported from Denver that an effort is being made by Mr. Wolcott's friends and by other senatorial aspirants to get written pledges from the members of the legislature to arbitrarily unseat the Democratic delegation from Arapahoe county and also that the Republican delegation from Arapahoe county is being besieged with threats that unless they pledge themselves to vote for or against Wolcott they will be deprived of their seats whatever the evidence of fraud may be.

This struggle at this time is unseemly, undignified, and demoralizing. Nothing could be done to so injure the Republican cause or to so much detract from the glory and prestige of Republican victory as these proceedings.

The Gazette sincerely hopes that every Republican elected to the legislature will promptly and vigorously refuse to enter into any compact of any kind that will prevent him from exercising his free will and honest judgment for the best interests of the party and state when the time for action arrives on both the contests for seats and the senatorial question.

This is a time for the greatest possible wisdom and conservatism and every Republican member should realize that the future welfare of the party is in his keeping.

GENERAL CHAFFEE'S RETURN.

MANY MORE SPECTACULAR heroes have returned to the United States than General Adna R. Chaffee, but few have come back with a record of more creditable service.

General Chaffee was the central figure of the campaign in China, where the United States army appeared to such advantage in the field of diplomacy as well as in that of warfare, and it was in direct recognition of his services there that General Chaffee was sent to the Philippines, where he has been of great usefulness in enforcing peace and establishing the establishment of civil government.

His record of work has supplemented very good service in the civil war, and when he retires from the active list, after so long years for his countrymen's pleasure, he will be accomplishing a record that is most honorable.

HOW THE STATE IS DISGRACED.

THE FOLLOWING EDITORIAL from the Chicago Record-Herald shows how the state of Colorado is disgraced by the reports sent out from Democratic sources in Denver to the effect that the Republicans will "throw out" the Democratic representatives from Arapahoe county without regard to a sufficient and well-established basis of fraud:

"It would appear from the Denver dispatches that Colorado is having an edifying season of good old-fashioned politics. Charges of fraud fill the air, and it is quite possible that they are true or have a trace of truth. But whether they have or not, there is no doubt about their purpose. The Republicans frankly announce that they will be made the excuse for unseating Democrats. According to their program a small majority in the house of representatives will throw out a sufficient number of the minority to overcome a hostile majority in the senate on joint ballot.

"That the precedents of good old fashioned politics justify such a proceeding is certain, fraud or no fraud. It has often happened that a majority in congress has determined the right to a seat in that body upon party considerations solely. So often in fact has this been the case that whenever there is a contested election it is assumed that the party in power will decide for its candidate as a matter of course and with a cynical disregard of the evidence.

"Fortified by this assumption and the long array of lofty precedents the Republicans of Colorado may set to work with a clear conscience and make a majority to suit themselves. After that the remaining tasks will be easy. They may dispose of local issues, temporarily at least, as they see fit, and, what is most interesting from a national point of view, they may elect a United States senator."

These Denver dispatches, as every one in Colorado knows, are the result of frantic efforts to dodge the weight of infamy that is being fixed on the leaders as well as the tools of the Democratic Arapahoe county gang.

It is unpleasant to be obliged to confess that there is any basis whatever for such counter accusations, but the few and uninfluential Republican bosses and newspapers that are urging such a course, are utterly out of touch with public sentiment.

And public sentiment is, we believe, sufficiently aroused and sufficiently powerful to secure the rectification of fraudulent returns, the punishment of election criminals and the safeguarding of the public interests without any resort to dishonorable partisan measures which Democratic politicians predict and a few Republican politicians seek to justify.

THE NAVAL CAREER FOR BOYS.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by the navy department of a shortage in the available naval officers is likely to bring a quick remedy if congress acts promptly. There is certainly no shortage of boys and young men in the United States who have the patriotism and the physical and mental equipment necessary to fit themselves for serving their country as naval officers. All that it is necessary for congress to do is to open the doors of the academy at Annapolis and the naval training schools a little wider, and to facilitate the passage of good material from the latter to the former.

The navy has always been an attractive career for American boys, and it is still, but for many years the authorities seemed to be greatly afraid of getting too many officers, and the narrow rules regulating the Annapolis academy seemed to be planned rather to keep young men out of the navy rather than to bring them into it. Now the circumstances are different, and the demand is for more officers. The navy can get them, and just as good ones as were ever provided, but it will necessarily take time.

It takes longer to produce an admiral or even a good gunner than it does a battle ship, and the man is more important than the machine.

Congress should pay prompt attention to the recommendations of the naval authorities, and should set to work to increase the supply of captains and admirals with the same energy with which it has built up the cruisers and battleships of the new navy.

THE PRIZE OF OPPORTUNITY.

THERE is a great deal of good sense in the remark attributed to President Roosevelt, that "he did not delude himself with the impression that the result of the election meant that he would be re-elected two years from now, or that at that time there would be another vote of confidence in the Republican party. He said the result of the next election depended entirely upon what was done at Washington between now and that time, and not what has been promised before the recent election.

"The president vigorously stated that he was convinced that there would be a reaction against the Republican party if the country were disappointed in the legislation and administration of the next year. He mentioned the fact that the prices of commodities had risen more rapidly than the price of labor, and it would be the business of the government to reduce the first without lowering the second. He said that it did not make so much political difference what kind of laws were passed or what was attempted as it did whether results were secured."

And what is true of the nation is true even more positively of the state. The Republican party of Colorado now has the opportunity of showing what it can do for the correction of the Democratic abuses and misgovernment of which the people complain.

If the party is true to the people, the people may safely be trusted to take care of the future of the party.

THE ISLE OF PINES.

THE SITUATION in the Isle of Pines is an unfortunate one. It has no settled government and the future of the island is merely a matter of guesswork.

In the bill which authorized the withdrawal of the American army from Cuba, the provisos of which were ratified by the Cuban constitution, it was stated that the sovereignty of the Isle of Pines would be left to future arrangement. But now through the failure of the Cuban congress to act in the matter there is no immediate prospect of a definite settlement. Neither Cuba nor the United States has a clear title to the island, and it is not surprising that business and political conditions in the island are in a most chaotic condition.

The matter has been brought to the attention of President Roosevelt by American citizens residing on the island, but it is doubtful whether any effective relief can be given under present conditions.

Something new in fires was the burning of the wooden framework and sheds at the top of the steel tower of the new East river bridge at New York.

THE MOTH BALL.

An ode, if you please, to
The frost-tainted
Breeze
That doth herald the advent of fall,
And likewise a song
To the incense
So strong
Of the fragrant and pungent
Moth ball!
Behold how the Druggist,
(A atomic anti-bug-ist)
Displayeth these globules galore,
Till a man might believe
That he fain would
Deceive
Us to think 'twas a big
Marble store,
Through the calm autumn air,
O'er the town
Everywhere,
Attic cellar and all living rooms,
Every place that we roam
In our erstwhile
Sweet home
Is filled with these dread
Moth ball fumes!
Each carnation and rose
That we put to
Our nose
Seems to reek with the same
Awful smell,
Each potato and steak
Of the which we partake
Tastes strongly of camphor as well!
It follows us down
To our office
In town
And clings all day long to our clothes,
And there is no escape
For, like some ghostly shape,
Wherever we travel
It goes!
If a bug tries to dwell
Near it, he might as well
Select his
Pall-bearers, that's all
For no child woman, man
Bug fish bird or beast can Escape the
Curst
Pungent
Moth ball!

"Does absence make the heart grow fonder?"

"Yes, fonder of someone else."

"Hit ain't always what yo frens do too yo, honey, dat hurts," remarked Uncle Ephe. "hit am de fac' dat dey want too do hit dit yo cyarnt unnerstan'."

"But you're prejudiced against him because you don't understand him. He has some strength. He is always true to himself."

"Well, in this instance I don't consider that any very high recommendation."

I understand young Teller has left the bank. Maybe gone for good?"

"On the contrary. He's gone to Canada, I believe."

Ah, colonel," said the sweet young thing, "you didn't appreciate those good old days when you had them. You never miss the water till the well runs dry, you know."

"That," replied Colonel Ryegoose of Kentucky, feelingly, "is one thing Ah never miss even then." J. W. W.

CHINAMAN AND QUAKER.

"A Chinese Quaker," by Nellie Blessing-Eyster. Fleming H. Revell Company, New York.

The novel which is essentially a record of facts these being merely recited in a garb of fiction, is rarely of much interest unless it is historic in the larger sense of the word. The writer, especially if a novice, is almost always confused by the necessity of keeping the facts prominent and yet leading to them an artificial interest by the development of story and character, so that the usual result is an insistence upon the mere facts to the detriment of the total interest of the novel. For fact whatever the realists may claim, is usually very commonplace except at isolated periods and under peculiar and rarely recurring circumstances. Therefore the novel of facts is usually a flat failure being devoid of interest and art.

The general rule, however, holds exceptions and among these, at least to some degree, must be placed "A Chinese Quaker" by Nellie Blessing-Eyster. The very name of the book is attractive in its suggestion of impossible combination, but the seemingly impossible, as is so frequently the case, is none the less true, and the Chinese Quaker is not only a fact but the foundation for the story. The incident that gave rise to the title was a letter from John G. Whittier in which, speaking of a little Chinese boy who had been rescued from the slums and was being trained and taught by his rescuer, he used the phrase and the book before us is occupied to large extent in telling how the peculiar transformation from heathen to Friend was accomplished. It is of course a novel with a purpose, it paints a side of the Chinese question, and one that is highly creditable to the much abused nation of which we really know so little. Very much of the book, as we have said, is absolute fact, thus, the letter referred to as from Mr. Whittier is quoted verbatim, and there are others from the poet and from the Chinese hero himself which are practically given as written by these real people. Moreover, the story of the rescue and development of the Chinese boy—now a Quaker mandarin in his native land—is essentially true as given in the book, some of the incidents are fictitious, but all results and main facts are veracious.

The book has several threads of story, but that which alone has any likelihood of holding the attention of the reader is to be found in the conversion of Tong Sing Wing preceded by the story of the practical conversion of Wilhelmina, who from an antagonist of all things Chinese becomes an earnest missionary to some of that nation. There are also in the story many interesting lights upon certain of the abuses connected with our Chinese system and with the existence of Chinamen in California—the scene of the narrative. Particularly interesting are the revelations concerning the infamous trade in young girls which is almost openly prosecuted, and there are to be found in the novel many suggestions for at least possibilities of improvement in our dealings with our Mongolian brethren. We commend the book to all who are interested in the development of the eastern races within our gates as well as to all who can appreciate a very simple story, simply told, yet holding the true spirit of Christianity and helpfulness. FAYWOOD HOT SPRINGS.

Faywood Hot Springs, N. M., is the name of a health resort formerly known as the Hudson Hot Springs. A new up-to-date hotel is being operated by the Hot Springs company, containing 70 rooms with rates from $2.50 to $3.50 per day and $50 to $75 per month.

Persons afflicted with rheumatism, kidney ailments, nervous dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles will find great relief by using the water of the natural hot springs.

The water is particularly noted for rheumatism.

The round trip rate from Colorado Springs is $16.00. C. C. Hoyt, C. P. A.

When Do I Love Thee Best.

When do I love thee best?
When in a dewy field at morn I stand,
And pure as thy deep eyes lies all the land,
While through the fragrant hush comes close at hand
The liquid love-song of a bird beside his nest—
'Tis then I love thee best!

When do I love thee best?
When through the weary noon there comes to me
The thought that all the toil is for thee,
And my dark, dingy room grows fair to see
And bright because thy face is my sweet spirit-guest—
'Tis then I love thee best!

When do I love thee best?
Ah, when the hour arrives which breaks the chain
That keeps me from thy side, and makes me fain
To say my day begins at eve, when once again
I turn my eager footsteps toward the golden west—
'Tis then I love thee best!

When do I love thee best?
When we two stand alone beneath the sky
And watch the star-worlds file in splendor by,
The night's soft silence holds no jarring cry,
And our two hearts are like the sleeping world at rest—
'Tis then I love thee best!
—Venita Seibert in Ainslee's.

Who Pays for Stage Costumes?

The rule is that managers supply all costumes not of the present day, the actors paying for the modern dress. However, some plays about smart people have been put on so elaborately lately that the producers have paid for the gowns. Women with reputations as modish and original dressers, such as Miss Elsie de Wolfe, Miss Lillian Russell and Miss Amelia Bingham, go abroad every summer to search the Paris establishments for novelties. In a modern play the stage manager gives a list of the colors that may be used in a scene and lets the actresses settle it among themselves. "The leading woman gets first choice, and so on down according to each dress's importance in the play. The costumes for Broadway extravaganzas are always made from colored plates by an artist who consults with the stage manager, and is subservient to him in case of disagreement.—(From "Mailing a Play," by F. E. Eyles in Leslie's Monthly for November.

The Bore of Opera.

Of the two seasons I much prefer the Newport to the New York season. In that delightful city by the sea we lead far more wholesome lives than we can possibly lead in New York. In the first place, we are in the open air a large part of the time; then, too, no matter what the newspapers may say about our extravagance, we do simplify there a good deal. To me the most trying feature of the New York winter is the opera. I detest grand opera, and I hold Wagner in horror. And yet twice a week regularly, I sit in my box. I often blame myself for submitting to this dreadful tyranny. The memory of those dreadful Wagnerian performances at the Metropolitan Opera house gives me a kind of weakness. The oftener I hear Wagner's operas, the more I loathe them. I wonder if any one really likes them. I know, of course, plenty of women who pretend that they do, but then women are always pretending about something. I often marvel at those poor creatures who go to the opera house and stand in the back through a Wagner opera. And they don't have to do it because it is expected of them either. I suppose they really must like it. Poor things!—(From "Confessions of a Society Woman" in Ainslee's.

The Spellbinder in Modern Politics.

The spellbinder hails his appearance coincidently with the "dude" in the early eighties. At least the names arose at about that time. The two types of man have existed since the first spellbinder persuaded his brother troglodytes to form the first tribal government and the first dude distinguished himself from his fellows by scraping the sea-mud from his hairy limbs before gulping down the mollusks whose high-heaped shells were to be the kitchen middens of the archeologist.

The Young Republicans who went forth converted to Democracy in the Blaine campaign and with the zeal of new converts held their audiences "spellbound" as they wove chaplets of rhetorical flowers about the head of the Democratic candidate, were the first spellbinders, I think to wear the title. It was swiftly adopted, however, indiscriminately for all political speakers.

The spellbinders of 1894, rightly or wrongly, at least left their party for conscience's sake and gave their services to their cause. Even today a majority of political speakers are absolutely unpaid. Of course, one hears stories of fees of $10,000 paid to a noted Democrat for campaign services against Mr. Bryan in 1896 and of fees of $500 a night paid to a noted independent who opposed Mr. Harrison. In addition, however, to congressmen and senators, and state and local office-holders who give their services, there are hundreds of speakers of various political faiths, who neither hold nor expect to hold public office, who would regard the offer of payment for a political speech as an insult. Nevertheless, the spellbinder must get what comfort he can from the triumph of his cause, for the world will not credit him with disinterestedness, and his friends (not of politics) think him hired.

The orator of an earlier generation has had his day. The modern spellbinder, like the man of business, the soldier, the Salvation army evangelist, concerns himself more with results, than conventional methods, with matter rather than form.—(From "The Spellbinder," by Col. Curtis Guild, jr., in the November Scribner's.

HOLBROOK & PERKINS

SUIT OF NELLIE LEWIS AGAINST HER ATTORNEYS

To Recover Alleged Portion of Compromise Money in Sam Strong Breach of Promise Suit Is on Trial Today.

In the district court today trial of the case of Nellie Lewis vs. J. C. Helm, W. D'A. Lombard and J. Reid Crowell will be taken up. The defendant, Lombard, filed an affidavit yesterday to the effect that the presence of Augustus H. Martin as a witness is necessary and Judge Cunningham therefore ordered that subpoena be issued.

Nellie Lewis is the young woman who secured a judgment of $50,000 against the late millionaire Sam Strong, who was killed by Grant Crumley. She is suing the defendants for the recovery of $4,000 which she alleges should have been a portion of the amount ultimately compromised upon. She claims that the defendants were her attorneys in the case when it was appealed to the supreme court and that they were to have one-third of the amount recovered by the suit, which was for breach of promise. She claims that she was finally awarded $24,000 through compromise with the administratrix of the estate of Sam Strong and that she should have received $16,000 of that amount, but that in reality she was given but $12,000.

In a separate answer filed by J. C. Helm, he claims that he was employed by the defendant Crowell to assist in the conduct of the suit in the supreme court; that it was finally compromised upon a basis of $24,000 with the administratrix of the Strong estate and that he received a check for that amount. It is alleged that in accordance with an agreement, with the terms of which the plaintiff was fully cognizant of and offering no protest to, he paid her $12,000, gave Crowell $6,000 less $250, which at the request of the plaintiff he paid to John W. Sleeper, gave Lombard $3,000 and retained $2,000 himself for his services.

Replying to this statement the plaintiff claimed that she accepted the $12,000 only under threat that the attorneys would take steps to prevent her from getting any at all.

Wrong Company Was Sued and the Case Is Dismissed

Because the wrong company was sued the case of M. S. Chase vs. the Colorado Springs & Suburban Railway company came to a sudden termination in the district court yesterday. It was for damages alleged to have been sustained through personal injuries, and claimed to have been incurred between Colorado Springs and Manitou. The plaintiff had gone on the stand and testified for a short time when Attorney Gandy, representing the company, raised the point that the identity of the company had not been established. It seems that the Rapid Transit company should have been sued originally, and the Rapid Transit company has been sold to the Colorado Springs & Interurban Railway company, and the Colorado Springs & Suburban railway has nothing to do with the matter. Mr. Gandy himself went on the stand and Attorney Henry McAllister, Jr., and William Lloyd were sent for to further establish this state of facts when the case was dismissed.

Judge Cunningham and a jury are engaged in hearing the testimony in the case of Samuel Ralston vs. J. F. Thomas, wherein the plaintiff sues for damages in the sum of $15,000, on account of personal injuries sustained while in the employ of the defendant. He claims to have been injured by a fall in the chapel of the Methodist church, while working on a scaffolding. It is alleged that the injuries were permanent. One more witness is to be examined before the case will go to the jury.

Paper Served on Piper When the Undersheriff Called

That there are more ways of killing a dog than by choking him with butter, is an adage which was exemplified by Undersheriff O. P. Grimes yesterday.

Mr. James N. Piper, said to be of Piper-Heidsick tobacco fame, through the fact that he is the son of Piper senior, and who has been besieged in his room at the Antlers hotel by the sheriff's officers who wanted to serve a summons upon him in a case brought in Arapahoe county against him by the First National bank of Denver raised his siege yesterday and did it in a hurry when Undersheriff Grimes took charge of things.

As stated yesterday, Mr. Piper evinced a decided aversion to be served with the summons. Why, is his own business, but it was the business of the sheriff's officers to see that he was served. After calling numerous times and always finding Mr. Piper out the officers learned Monday night that he was in his room. He refused to answer repeated knocks, although he had silent commune with attaches of the hotel. Therefore, Sheriff Gilbert stationed officers at the door and told them to stay there until Mr. Piper came forth.

Deputy Dayton held down the early night vigil and at midnight he was relieved by Deputy Larabee. The latter stayed there until morning and was relieved by Jailor Nelson long enough to get his breakfast. Then Larabee again resumed the watch. It was getting well along toward noon when Undersheriff Grimes took hold of the matter. He went down to the Antlers hotel with blood in his eye and a warmth under his collar. The undersheriff proceeded to lay down the law around the hotel. He pointed out the fact that there is a section of the statutes which provides a severe penalty for anyone conniving at keeping officers from serving papers of any kind and then he issued an ultimatum. He said that he would be back in fifteen minutes and if the door was not open by that time he would very likely kick it open, and moreover, would come armed with a warrant which would make things very unpleasant for all concerned.

Then Mr. Grimes went across the street and waited. Within ten minutes Mr. Piper had issued forth from his room and had been served by Larabee with the summons. He seemed to take it as a good joke, shook hands with the officer and remarked that he had given him a long wait. His jocoseness failed to arouse even the glimmer of a smile on Larabee's face, however, and the sheriff's office gives it out cold that this will be the last time that they will ever go to that length to serve papers on anyone.

Another Continuance Taken in the Stratton Will Case

As had been generally expected another continuance was taken in the Stratton will matter when it came up for hearing in the county court at 2 o'clock, in accordance with the postponement of the previous day. It has now been put off until December 11, at 10 o'clock. It was agreed between counsel that the law points involved shall be heard before Judge Orr at a date prior to that time. Judges A. T. Gunnell and Ira Harris, representing I. Harry Stratton, Tyson S. Dines, Henry McAllister, Jr., and N. S. Gandy, representing the will, and Attorney-General C. C. Post, representing the state, were in court yesterday when the continuance was taken. Judge Gunnell wanted the matter to go over until the January term of court, but this was met with some opposition from the attorneys for the will. December 11 was finally agreed upon.

Owing to the success of the chrysanthemum exhibit at Wm. Clark's greenhouses, the same will be continued for the balance of this week, closing Saturday night. Everybody welcome.

Grand Opening Sale of New Pianos

Knight-Campbell Music Co. Undertake Biggest Sale Ever Conducted in Colorado Springs---Grand New Pianos $185 to $250.

By all odds the largest and best equipped music store in Colorado Springs, stocked from top to bottom with brand new pianos, affording a choice from upwards of 25 different makes, and these in choicest selected mahogany, walnut and oak cases.

Pianos in this opening sale with prices in plain figures, marked fully $100 less than sold for anywhere in Colorado.

Of course, it is only for a short time. This price-cutting cannot go on always.

First piano to go in this sale was an elegant mahogany case $300 instrument; $185 is all we got—all we asked for it. We have one more, exactly like it in an oak case; same price; cash or time.

Splendid oak case piano for $260, regular $375 piano.

Piano for $176 that is the equal of most pianos offered elsewhere at $300 to $350.

One beautiful mahogany case piano for $162, another one for $187.

Absolutely new pianos, your choice in any wood at $238 to $270.

Elegant new piano for $185.

One Smith & Barnes, also three Franklin pianos rented short while, but were never sold, like new and prices are reduced over $100. These are standard make pianos. We guarantee them absolutely.

Steinway, A. B. Chase, Weber, Everett and Fisher pianos, representing a saving in price that will go a long way in payment of them.

Kimball piano, very newest and latest design, price cut over $75.

Chickering & Sons, Vose, Hallett & Davis, Howard, Whitney, Willard pianos from $125 to $135, $150, etc., etc.

New and used organs, very best makes there are, at $15 and up.

Remember, every instrument in our stock is marked in plain figures. Everybody can read, and not one penny will be added if you buy on time.

Steinway and A. B. Chase grand pianos that represent the biggest saving ever offered on any piano in this city.

You may have been quietly thinking that you would surprise your good wife and children with a piano for Christmas. Now is certainly the time to do the figuring. Will deliver the piano now or hold it for you until Christmas. You will need to pay only a little money, and we assure you that it will be many a day before this opportunity will come to you again, if, indeed, it ever does.

Yesterday was the beginning of this sale, and every indication is that fully 30 pianos will have been sold, but it will be along in a hurry—a week or possibly ten days.

Store will be open every evening until 9 o'clock.

You can't help but be suited in this stock. Come any day, any evening.

Another Petition to Governor for Pardon of Colorado City Men

While the friends of the Colorado City men, who are serving 30 days in the county jail on charges of permitting gambling in their establishments, were working in Denver to secure a pardon for their release, it is understood that a petition was being circulated around Colorado City asking Governor Orman to permit the sentence to stand. The authors of this latter petition are not known, but the report of its circulation is upon reliable authority. It is understood that the delegation which went to Denver yesterday asking pardon for Byron Hames, J. W. Blackwood, David Rees, Henry Coby and James I. Lacey, returned yesterday. Just what the result of their visit will be remains to be seen. The movement to secure the pardon is said to have strong backing and it will have additional strength from the fact that some of the prisoners were very strong supporters of the ticket upon which Orman was elected governor.

Caledonian Society Will Hold Its Annual Meeting Tomorrow

The annual meeting of the Caledonian society of this city will be held tomorrow, Thursday evening, at Caledonian hall, 18 East Bijou street, when annual reports will be presented by the secretary and the treasurer and the annual election of officers will take place.

The society is one of the largest and most progressive organizations in the city, and considerable interest will be taken by its members in the business that is to come up tomorrow. Every member of the society is expected to show his interest in the welfare of the organization by assisting in the disposal of these matters of business.

The meeting will be an interesting one in many ways. Mr. F. B. Hill is to read his paper on "The Kailyard School," the St. Andrew's day celebration will be considered and suitable action in preparation for it will be taken.

An announcement of considerable general interest, as well as of interest to the members of the Caledonian society is that of the engagement of the famous "Kilties band," of Canada, which has been contracted with to give two concerts on January 27, next, in the Temple theater in this city. "The Kilties" are widely regarded as the most unique musical organization in the world, numbering 40 bandsmen, a choir of 16 voices, pipers, dancers, and a drum major who is seven feet tall. Their appearance here will undoubtedly be very liberally supported.

Big Crowds Attending Y. W. C. A. Rummage Sale

The rummage sale being conducted by the Y. W. C. A. at 118 South Cascade avenue, had a very satisfactory patronage yesterday and the management felt much encouraged. Today many fresh new things will be offered at great bargain prices. The sale will begin at 9 o'clock this morning and continue open until 10 p. m. As the building cannot be had any longer, the sale will positively close at that hour.

Contributions will still be very acceptable. Please send to the place of sale, 118 South Cascade avenue, or if inconvenient to do so, telephone to the home of the Y. W. C. A., 327 North Weber street, at once.

FINE PRODUCT FROM AN IRRIGATED APPLE FARM

Mr. Robert Waugh of this city, has received from his son, R. E. Waugh, who owns an irrigated fruit farm in the Ashley valley in Utah, an apple of the pippin variety, perfect in shape, beautiful in color, measuring 15 inches in circumference and weighing one and one-quarter pounds. Mr. Waugh states that this apple is not an exceptional sample and that the tree from which it came is weighted down to the ground with its burden of rich fruit.

The farm from which this product comes is on the line of the new Denver & Northwestern railroad, and suggests in a striking way the possibilities of the region which will be opened to cultivation by the construction of this railroad.

DEATH OF NEW YORK PRINTER AT THE HOME HERE YESTERDAY

Ernest C. Fechner, a member of New York union, No. 6, died at the Union Printers home yesterday of tuberculosis. He had been a resident of the home since July 12, 1901. His death was unexpected as his health had been such that he was able to serve on the election board of precinct 21, at the election a week ago. Mr. Fechner was born in Germany September 9, 1857, but came to this country when quite young. His family, consisting of a wife and one son, reside in Rochester, N. Y., and his remains will await their orders for final disposition.

SUIT FOR MONEY LOST IN GAMING COMES UP MONDAY

Notice was filed in the district court yesterday by the plaintiff in the case of Ellen M. Bentley vs James I. Lacey and Thomas Lacey that the demurrer in the case will be called up for disposition on next Monday. This is the case wherein the plaintiff seeks to recover money alleged to have been lost by her husband over the defendants' gaming tables.

S. T. Johnson, party defendant in the case of the Columbia Savings and Loan association et al vs Frank A. Lendrum et al filed an answer.

A list of the creditors of Cora K. Harrison, who recently assigned, was filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday. There are twenty-eight in all.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH FAIR WILL OPEN SATURDAY

St. Mary's fair will begin on Saturday, 15th, instead of Monday, as previously announced. All indications point to an even greater success than that of one year ago when the spacious Temple theater was taxed each evening to its greatest capacity. The $600.00 Chickering piano, which will be presented to the most popular young lady, is now on exhibition at Hext's Music store. The voting up to the present is kept secret, but will be published when the fair opens.

The Midland band and orchestra has been engaged, and one or the other, or both, will be heard each night. Joe Newman of Denver, will be the principal attraction on Tuesday night, which will be known as "Knights of Columbus" night. Late car service has been arranged for. Cars will run on all lines as late as 11:30 p. m.

ARNETT-BIXLER

A very pretty home wedding occurred yesterday at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bixler, of 23 West Fountain street, when their only daughter, Miss Florence A. Bixler, was given in marriage to Mr. George S. Arnett, the popular young clerk of the Wells Fargo Express company, Rev. J. O. Paisley officiating. The home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums. The bride wore white landsdowne. After luncheon the newly married couple left for a two weeks' trip in the east. On their return they will make their home in this city.

A Penny Saved Is a Penny Gained

The GAZETTE WILL START A BANK ACCOUNT FOR YOU FREE

Safe Bind

Safe Find

The greatest men of our country, the men who have made their fortunes by the sweat of their brow, are strong advocates of the benefits that a bank account confers on man or woman. It matters not whether they are merchants or wage earners, give them a bank account and the opportunity to save their earnings and they will rise and take their proper place in this world's work. In no state in the union is there a greater need of thrift than in Colorado, and the Gazette, ever to the front in promoting those things that mean a "Greater Colorado" intends to take part in the work of helping the people to save their money.

READ OUR PLAN

The Gazette has made arrangements with several of the strongest savings banks of the state whereby anyone who becomes a subscriber to the Gazette for a period of three months, paying the first month's subscription, sixty cents in advance, shall have a bank account started with the sum of one dollar to their credit. That is to say that in consideration of any man, woman or child becoming a subscriber to The Colorado Springs Gazette as aforesaid, the Gazette agrees to furnish the subscriber with a steel savings bank and to start a bank account with the sum of one dollar to their credit with the banking institution nearest to their home. A liberal rate of interest will be allowed by each of the banks.

The Bank Keeps The Key

You slip in your quarters, dimes and nickels when you are flush with small change. Bring the box to the bank at intervals and get credit in your pass book for its contents. Before you know it you are carrying a BANK ACCOUNT of good proportions, and saving has become a habit. Deposits made through this safe may, however, be withdrawn at ANY TIME. This tight locking up of the little sums indifferently tossed into the fund is the ONLY plan that makes daily saving a success. Unreflecting people are astonished to see how quickly this matter develops from a trivial thing into an interest of genuine importance.

You Have the Bank

It is not what you EARN, but what you SAVE, that makes you well-to-do.

The Colorado Springs Gazette has made contracts with the following institutions to receive deposits and will add other banks to the list in all parts of the state as soon as arrangements can be made.

The Colorado Springs Trust Co.
COLORADO SPRINGS.
Capital Paid Up. $250,000.00

The Pueblo Realty Trust Co.
PUEBLO, COLO.
Capital Paid Up $250,000.00

The First National Bank,
VICTOR, COLORADO.
Capital Paid Up $50,000.00

The Mercantile Contract Security Co.
DENVER, COLO.
Capital Subscribed $1,250,000.00

Full information regarding the plan may be obtained at the Gazette office in Colorado Springs or by calling on or addressing

A. A. SWAN, 417 E. 23d, Building, Denver, Colo.
W. A. ORANGE, 217 N. Union Avenue, Pueblo, Colo.
ALFRED TODD, 349 Bennett Ave., Cripple Creek, Colo.

In all of the above towns the Gazette is delivered by early morning carrier.

This idea appeals to all classes and all ages. The laborer, the professional man and the business man all see the advisability and good points of such a system. It is simple and safe. It is sure and it will be the means of starting many a fortune in this city. The boy or the man, the girl or the woman, can profit by it and to all it appeals. Dimes, nickels, quarters, halves and dollars can be saved whereas if the attempt were made to carry them around in the pocket until a sufficient amount had been collected to start a bank account at some regular banking institution, they would be spent before the next dime, quarter or dollar was raised. Once in the bank it is safe and laid away for a rainy day. The old adage, "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," has been proved true time and again and this system affords a chance to take care of the pennies.

Not only that it strengthens a habit that makes character and inspires confidence. It is not the trifle saved, it is the principle; the training of a child to secure something it can call its own; the habit of laying something aside that may be applied to any purpose the child has set its heart on.

The little Home Savings Bank is a solid steel bank, which is kept at home and is always handy. The slot through which the money is deposited is protected by a patented device, so that it is impossible to jolt or pry the money out when once placed therein.

When the bank is handed to you, it is securely locked, and the TRUST COMPANY KEEPS THE KEY. You take it home and drop your coins or bills into it as you can spare them. About once a month bring your bank book and your little bank to the Trust Company's Office, where it is unlocked, the money counted in your presence, and the amount, whatever it may be, placed to your credit on the bank book. The bank is then locked up again and handed back to you.

You Begin a Bank Account

Save Against a Rainy Day

Remember the Gazette will start your account with one dollar which absolutely belongs to you.

The amount of taxes for each institution can be figured out from the foregoing table. General revenue gets 1 4-5 mills. Agricultural college, School of mines, Normal school, university, insane asylum get 1-5 mill each; stock inspection gets 1-20 of a mill, and the capitol building sinking fund gets the balance.

UNIVERSITY REGENTS REPORT—The thirteenth biennial report of the regents of the University of Colorado was filed with Mrs. Helen M. Grenfell today by President James H. Baker of that institution. The report shows an attendance of 925 in both university and preparatory school, which is a creditable increase over the attendance of last year.

C. F. and I. ANNUAL MEETING—Assistant Secretary Heyn, of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, has issued a formal call for the annual meeting as set by the circuit court of the United States for December 10. The stock books in New York will close on November 20. The Osgood faction claims that nothing has occurred in the affairs of the company to indicate that the present management will not retain the control. It is believed that no attempt will be made to change or postpone the annual meeting. It is said that both the Gates and Osgood interests are now soliciting proxies.

MAY SETTLE TROUBLE—It is said that the trouble which has been on for some days in the Union Pacific shops, is likely to be settled some time this week. George Mulberry, the third vice president of the International Association of Machinists, is in Denver for the purpose of adjusting the difficulties. The union switchmen who are at work for the Union Pacific in Denver do not believe that they will be affected in any way by the trouble.

RAILROADS PROTEST—Representatives of the different Colorado railroads met the board of county commissioners today and entered a protest against any favors being shown the Colorado & Southern road which were not to be shown to other railroads in the state. No reply has been made by the county commissioners, who have taken the matter under consideration.

SAN LUIS VALLEY LANDS—G. V. Burton, who represents several wealthy men in Michigan and New York, and has just returned to Denver from the San Luis valley, has secured options on 20,000 acres of farming land. This is the first step in a deal which will embrace the investment of $300,000 in Colorado realty. Papers will be signed this week in Denver, and it is expected that during the winter, farmers from Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio will settle in Colorado. Mr. Burton says that this is not a colonization scheme, but is the result of the great interest taken in the San Luis farming land by the farmers of the eastern and middle states.

ALVA ADAMS STILL CONFIDENT

He Claims That the Official Count Will Yet Make Him Congress-man-at-Large.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette
With Colorado Securities Company.

Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 11.—Hon. Alva Adams, who ran for congressman-at-large in the recent election, said tonight that he was satisfied that he would be elected if he had a fair count. He said that Las Animas county and Kiowa county showed by their official vote that he was 150 votes ahead of Brooks. This includes the plurality of 63 votes which the returns from nearly all of the election precincts in the state made in advance to the official count gave him.

Today Mr. Adams declares that he is more sanguine than ever of his election. "The official count," he said, "is doing exactly what I said it would do, revealing the exaggeration and falsification of the returns to which the Republicans have devoted themselves since the closing of the polls, election day. If I am given a fair show, by the canvassing boards of the various counties, I feel confident the result will show a safe plurality in my case."

DIED OF HEART FAILURE—Geo. Allison, a carpenter, 38 years old, was found dead in his bed today in a tent at the rear of 1224 Elm street. The deceased is an old resident of Bessemer, and a member of Carpenters union No. 362 of Pueblo. The coroner says that death was the result of heart failure, superinduced by alcoholic stimulants.

FOUND STOLEN GOODS—Police officers today discovered a plant wherein Edward Dukes, Albert Smith and William Thompson, three negroes, had placed their booty that they had stolen from M. Berger, of Denver, which store they had robbed last week. In the plant was found watches, revolvers, knives, handkerchiefs, shoes, and many other articles, and these were all turned over today to Denver detectives. When arrested last Friday night the negroes said that they were railroad porters, but their ignorance of railroads in Colorado led to their arrest.

WON HIS FIGHT FOR LOVE—Milour Vugnovic has finally won his fight for love, and Angela Simlanich will be his bride. Vugnovic was arrested a week ago for disturbance, when he went to the house of Miss Simlanich's father and declared his intentions of marrying the daughter. The father had another husband picked out, and when Vugnovic presented his claim the father kicked him out of the house. Today the father of the young lady went to the county clerk and assisted his prospective son-in-law in getting the license and the two will be made one tomorrow.

STOLE HORSES—Fred Hogge, 30 years old, is in the city jail tonight, contemplating the results of getting drunk. While under the influence of liquor he stole a team of horses from H. Longmore, living near Nepesta, and sold them for $160 to a resident of Pueblo. As soon as he received the money he began blowing it in, but was arrested and when searched had $90 left. The money was spent in the red light district.

OLD MAIDS RETURN—"An Old Maid's Return" will be presented next Tuesday evening by the Knights and Ladies of Security.

ORDER OF FORESTERS—Court Centennial No. 8879, Ancient Order of Foresters, will hold a special meeting Thursday evening for the purpose of determining whether social sessions shall be held this winter.

IRON WORKERS—An extra force of structural iron workers has been hired today for the purpose of putting in work on the new blowing engine on the new E. and F. furnaces.

MESA AVENUE VIADUCT—The structural iron pillars for the Mesa avenue viaduct are placed in position, and as soon as the iron arrives for the superstructure the viaduct will be completed.

DUFFY-PHILLIPS—Miss Joseph ne Duffy was married this evening to August Phillips, the Rev. H. J. C. Gerrand, pastor of the German Lutheran church, officiating. The happy couple, after a dinner, took a night train for the east, and will be at home to their friends December 1 in Minnequa addition.

LARGE FORCE EMPLOYED—Estimates today show that 4,400 men are employed at the Minnequa steel works. This does not include the men employed on the Colorado and Wyoming railroad, an auxiliary to the C. F. and I. company, but does include 200 men working for contractors.

STREET CAR LINE EXTENSION—The Pueblo Traction and Lighting company are extending their tracks from Evans avenue and Canal street to Indiana avenue in the Minnequa addition. It is expected that the cars will be running December 1.

IRRIGATION REPORT—Superintendent of Irrigation E. R. Chew has his semi-annual report about ready and it shows a most favorable condition for the Arkansas valley, on side of the depressing lack of water the last six months.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE—The annual sale of property for delinquent taxes was very lightly attended. No railroad property, or property of corporations was offered for sale, and the whole thing looks as if the sale had been cut and dried.

BREWERY EXTENSION—Walters Brewing company, which recently built an addition, finds that it is too small, and have let a contract today for a much larger addition.

RAILROAD PAY DAY—Today was pay day in the city for the employes of the Rio Grande railroad, and $74,000 was disbursed.

NONCUPATIVE WILL—The only noncupative will ever filed in this county was set for probate hearing today. Strange to say, a will of this sort is written after the death of the testator. The significance of the word is "solemnly declared." As a matter of fact, the testator, Michael F. Lyak Jr., was dying and did not have time to write his own will. Two witnesses were at the deathbed, and he declared to them the manner in which he wished his property disposed of, and after his death the two witnesses drew his will and it was accepted for probate.

FILED A PROTEST—Attorney M. J. Galligan, representing Mrs. Laura Morris and Frank Hull, protested against the sale of real property in the estate of A. Y. Howse, which had been offered for sale to clear the estate and the hearing was set for December 8. The petitioners were given ten days to file a replication to the answer of the heirs.

WATER WORKS EXTENSION—George J. Dunbaugh, general manager of the Pueblo Water company, says that he will move the pipe laid from the standpipe in Minnequa Heights to supply that addition by December 1, if weather conditions are favorable. In an interview with the Gazette correspondent, Mr. Dunbaugh said that it would require four miles of pipe to cover the addition.

MUCH TYPHOID—Since September 1 more than 200 cases of typhoid fever have been reported in this city, and this morning the school directors of district 20 gave orders to purify the water used by the school children. Either artesian or distilled water will be used.

DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED—The Pueblo Sanitary association's annual meeting was held today and the old board of directors, consisting of Andrew Park, Dr. R. W. Corwin, J. E. Elliott, Adam Leise and Aaron Sonneborn were elected.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION—Tonight the Colorado State Sunday School convention met at the First Presbyterian church, and a grand song service led by Willis ord Dey was held. Following the song service Rev. R. F. Coyle, pastor of the Central Christian church in Denver, gave an address on "The Bible in the Sunday Schools." Following him the Rev. J. C. Carmon read a paper on "Sunday School Opportunity." Tomorrow many of the leading divines of the state will read papers on important issues to the different churches and Sunday schools.

BURGLAR AT VICTOR GOT SOME VALUABLE JEWELRY

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, Colo., Nov. 11.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chipper, who reside at 312 Victor avenue, was entered about 8 o'clock tonight by burglars and about a dozen valuable rings stolen valued at between $300 and $400.

The family was absent at the time of the robbery and had locked every door of the house before leaving.

On returning they found the doors and windows just as they had left them and cutting that entrance was made with a pass key.

Officers were notified but no clew has yet been found as to the identity of the thief.

DR. ROOT TO TALK—Dr. Pauline Root, a medical missionary to India, will speak at the First Congregational church this evening at 7:30. A cordial invitation is given to all who may wish to hear this very interesting speaker.

BILLIARD HALL BURGLARIZED

Made Work for Housekeeper but Didn't See Anything He Wanted--Albert Bane Had Skull Fractured.

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Victor, Nov. 11.—The residence of Officer McKinney at 323 South Third street was entered by a burglar at 7 o'clock tonight. Entrance was gained by prying the front window with a "jimmy." After he had gained entrance, he searched every trunk, bureau and other drawer in the house, scattering the things from one end of the room to the other, but at a late hour tonight nothing of value was missed. A neighbor residing next door saw the man making his exit, and immediately reported the fact to the chief of police. Officers were immediately dispatched to the McKinney home, but so far no clew has been gained.

JOINS WEST'S MINSTRELS—Frank Murray, ex-chief of the Victor fire department, today signed a contract with the minstrel man, Billy West, and will leave in a few days to join the company at St. Joe, Mo.

SWALLOWED PINS—Mary Barton, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barton of Hollywood, was playing with a lot of pins this afternoon, placing a number in her mouth, and in some way she was scared a little, and the pins slipped partly down her throat, nearly strangling the child to death. Doctors removed the pins, and tonight the child is resting easily and will recover.

FELL FROM A BURRO—Charles Green, 7-year-old son of Abe Green, was riding a burro on South Fifth street this afternoon, when in some way he fell to the ground, and fractured his collar bone and right arm. He was immediately removed to his home in this city, and given every medical aid.

BOYS FOUND MONEY—Several small boys were playing in the rear of Mr. Amos Bowen's home on South Second street this afternoon and commenced digging in the soil, when of a sudden they struck an old baking powder can. Digging it out, it was found to contain a pile of old paper money of small denominations. The contents of the can indicated that it had been buried only recently.

AWAIT THE BOSTONIANS—At the advance sale of tickets for the Bostonians here Saturday night fully 200 people were in line by 8 o'clock this morning, and in the first 45 minutes, $300 was taken in. This indicates that every available space in the house will be taken, as good seats tonight could be sold at a premium.

DEATH OF CHILD—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Cameron of Gillett died yesterday afternoon, and was buried this afternoon in the cemetery at Gillett.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL—Saturday afternoon the football team of the High school of Victor will meet the Canon City High school boys on the gridiron at Union park in Cripple Creek. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

CLANCY-MILLER—Tonight at 6 o'clock Mr. W. H. Clancy and Miss Maude O. Miller were united in marriage. Shortly after the ceremony they went to a cozy little home on South Second street, which had been prepared by the groom.

SKULL FRACTURED—Albert Bane, employed on the Hull City placer, was struck on the head by a piece of falling steel which fractured his skull. He was removed to his home in Independence. The steel slipped from the hand of a miner who was working in the stope above.

MINER ON THE TRACHYTE MINE HAS FOOT CRUSHED

Special to the Gazette.

Independence, Nov. 11.—I. S. Williamson sustained a badly mashed foot while at work on the Trachyte mine yesterday. He was removed to his home in Cripple Creek.

Mrs. Dr. Shepherd will leave this week for an extended visit to her old home in Chicago.

James Murphy, superintendent of the Findley property, returned yesterday from a short business trip to Denver.

A. T. Holman, superintendent of the Golden Cycle and Theresa properties, returned last evening from a short trip to Denver.

P. C. Jones, bookkeeper of the Vindicator mine No. 1, returned from Colorado Springs, where he was visiting his daughter.

Sam Brown, formerly agent at the Terminal depot in this city, has accepted a position with the C. F. and I. company with headquarters near Trinidad.

Judge Reilly received yesterday the patent on his improved hoist, which is an improvement over the old way, in that the engineer can take care of the dumping of the buckets from the engine room.

Miss Gertie Walker reports an exceptionally good program in preparation to be given next Friday afternoon by her class.

Sherman M. Bell returned yesterday from a short trip to Colorado Springs.

The annual election of officers of the ladies of the M. E. church took place the latter part of last week. Mrs. Chester Shidler was elected president, Mrs. J. Wittenburger, treasurer, and Mrs. William Benedict as vice president and secretary.

A Word of Good Counsel.— When days are bleak and nights are long and cold, keep Perry Davis' Painkiller in the house. It is your faithful friend, as it was your parents' friend. External and internal use.

FLORENCE AND CANON CITY ELECTRIC ROAD

Promoter of the Project Returns From the East--Gold Excitement at Silver Cliff.

Special to the Gazette.

Florence, Nov. 11.—Thomas Robins, promoter and president of the Florence Electric State Railway company returned this afternoon from New York, where he has spent the last year, perfecting plans for the electric car line to connect Florence with Canon City, and all the coal camps in the outlying districts, floating the proposition, and raising money for its construction. He was met at the depot by a large concourse of public spirited men, where he stated that his trip had been a successful one, he having raised the money needed for the work. Early construction will be begun, but before this it will be necessary to have his renewal of the franchise which expired in May. The car line will be several miles long, and a veritable network of 60-pound rails. It is planned to not only convey passengers, but also to engage in the freighting business. Part of the track has been laid, and a lot of construction material is on the grounds. The framework for the immense power and boiler houses is up. It is said that the stock has been placed principally in the hands of the American Bridge and the Western Electric companies.

A good gold strike one-half mile from the town of Silver Cliff, made by Haskell Bros. and W. B. Jackson, is creating considerable stir. It seems to be the most important made in many years in southern Colorado. People down from there claim that the discoverers are quarrying out the ore and shipping it by carloads to Pueblo and Canon City. The strike was made just below the surface and on government land. Selected specimens yield 75 ounces of gold and some silver, but the vein across its width runs $44 per ton. Ground has been staked for two miles in every direction, and if the returns now being made on a sample carload are in keeping with the assay returns, there will be great excitement in all that region. It is believed now that the source of the ore of Custer county has at last been found after a search of 20 years.

The convention of the Colorado state branch of the Bricklayers and Stonemasons International union of America which has been in session here the last two days, was drawn to a close tonight. There are delegates present from all the large cities of the state. Tonight the local branch gave a banquet to the visitors at the Rock Island hotel. Socially the sessions have yielded the largest possible returns.

GOULD AND HARRIMAN ASK FOR C. F. & I. PROXIES

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 11.—A circular requesting proxies for the annual meeting of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company has been sent to stockholders. The circular is signed by George J. Gould, E. H. Harriman and Edwin Hawley, and says:

"We represent no particular faction in this matter, neither will we make any contest for or against the present management."

In Wall street the opinion prevails that the so-called Gates party no longer has any stock in Colorado Fuel.

CONSUMPTION

Is like the constrictor which drops its coils around its victim and slowly tightens them until life is extinguished. Once the coils are drawn tight there is little chance of escape. The one hope of safety is to break loose at the beginning of the attack.
